General Richard G. Stilwell (left), commander, Eighth U.S. Army, pins the Distinguished Service Medal (third oak leaf cluster) on Lieutenant General Richard T. Knowles, deputy commanding general, Eighth U.S. Army, during ceremonies held at Knight Field, July 24 honoring Gen. Knowles upon his departure from Korea. Gen. Knowles was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for his service as the commanding general, I Corps (ROK/US) Group from August 1972 to July 1973 and as deputy commanding general, Eighth U.S. Army from July 1973 to July 1974. The citation read in part "...General Knowles instituted far reaching improvements in the combat and combat support structure of Eighth Army elements, and introduced new operational concepts which enhanced their posture and brought them to a sharp combat edge, fully capable of performing their vital defense rolls in Korea."
