25TH Infantry Division

From Fort Bliss, Tex., where it was first organized in 1916, to the Philippines and Korea, and back to Hawaii, the 1st Battalion, 8th Artillery, has always adhered to its motto of "Daring and Tenacious." In World War I it fought through the hedgerows of France with the 7th Infantry Division in 1917, and in World War II through the island-hopping campaigns of the South Pacific, as part of the 25th Infantry Division.

As part of the 27th Regimental Combat Team, the 8th Artillery saw its first action in Korea July 24, 1950, between Taejon and Taegu, deep in South Korea.

At Chindong-ni, on the southern coast of the peninsula, the "Automatic Eighth" fought for ten days and earned the Republic of Korea Presidential Unit Citation.

In the "Bowling Alley", the "Automatic Eighth" helped maul some 3,000 North Koreans and with the rest of the "Fire Brigade" earned an Oak Leaf Cluster to its Distinguished Unit Citation.

In the 1,112 days since July 11, 1950, the "Automatic Eighth" had fired nearly half a million rounds of 105mm ammunition. On October 6, the men headed for Honolulu with the 25th Division Artillery, ending a 50-month Period of duty in Korea.

The 1st Battalion, 8th Artillery, was alerted for movement to Southeast Asia in mid-December 1965. After two weeks of intensive preparation, the battalion sailed as part of the 2nd Brigade Task Force on January 5, 1966.

On January 23, 1966, C Battery fired the "Automatic Eighth's" first round in anger from a position near Bien Hoa in support of Republic of Vietnam forces operating in War Zone D.

The following day lead elements of the 2nd Brigade Task Force moved by convoy to the Cu Chi area. There the 1st Battalion, 8th Artillery, supported clearing operations for the base camp area with accurate close-in fires.

During the first six months of combat in Vietnam, the 8th Artillery supported elements of the 2nd Brigade Task Force on 16 major operations. The 100,000th round was fired against the Viet Cong on July 31, 1966.

SSGI CHURCHILL

Within minutes after target data is collected on enemy positions, the sounds of artillery stir the air over the 25th Infantry Division's base camp at Cu Chi, and in areas where artillery units from the 25th Infantry Division Artillery are operating.

The quick response and earth-shattering firepower of the Division's artillery serve not only to keep the enemy off balance but also deprive him of vital supply routes and levy many casualties on him.

In addition to providing combat support to military operations of the Division in Vietnam, the 25th Division Artillery also plays an active role in "the other war," bringing the hope for a better way of life closer to the homes of the villagers of Vietnam.

Major General Fred C. Weyand
Commanding General

October 1, 1966

There are times in the lives of dedicated men when the course of human events leads to moments of trial and tribulation, courage and conviction, truth and triumph . . . In response, fighting men of the 25th have shouldered their share of responsibility . . . in halting the aggressor on the battlefield, in defending freedom with sweat and blood . . . and sometimes with life . . . and freedom itself. Men of the "Tropic Lightning" today, as in days and years passed, continue to bear the burden, pay the price, uphold the traditions of a heritage enriched with liberty, steeped in the spirit of brotherhood . . . This is the story of the 25th Infantry Division. No one knows it better than the man who has served the "Tropic Lightning." No one will ever know it better than he. . . .

2nd Battalion 32nd Artillery

July 23, 1965, the 2nd Battalion, 32nd Artillery, at Fort Sill, Okla., was alerted for deployment to Vietnam. The "Proud Americans" arrived in-country on November 4, 1965.

From a position near the Bien Hoa Air Base, the first 175mm round in combat was fired November 19. On January 8, 1966, the Battalion moved to Cu Chi, becoming the first heavy artillery west of Saigon. The 2nd Battalion, 32nd Artillery has a long and illustrious history, dating from its first organization on August 5, 1918, as B Battery, 32nd Field Artillery. The 32nd participated in the North African Campaign, Sicilian Campaign and Normandy Invasion, D Day.
