Viet Vote a Contest of Issues

S&S Vietnam Bureau

SAIGON—South Vietnam was to go to the polls Sunday to elect a lower house in what informed Saigon sources call a contest of issues rather than personalities or political parties.

The sources say the citizenry is questioning the more than 1,200 candidates for 137 legislative seats mostly on the thorniest problems facing the country's new government—corruption, protecting national sovereignty, land reform and increased agricultural aid to farmers.

There has been little of the name-calling and personal attacks between candidates that marked the recent presidential election.

Peace at any price or an immediate end to the fighting has not surfaced as a central point of debate, the sources say.

Only 4 to 5 per cent of the candidates have based their campaign on a peace platform.

The campaign's main theme, the sources maintain, is the "need for the remote and distant Saigon government to become more active in the candidates' respective areas.

The sources feel there is more local interest in this election than in any of the other four campaigns in the past 13 months.

'Dead' VC Hero Reads Of His Latest Honors

SAIGON (AP) — A week ago the Viet Cong announced it was posthumously decorating Nguyen Van Be as a hero of the people's liberation armed forces with three titles: Valiant Defender of Tanks, Valiant Destroyed 9 million propaganda leaflets over North Vietnam debunking the hero campaign the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese regime have built around what they claim was Be's death.
