U.S. Jets Plaster MIG Base

SAIGON (UPI) — American fighter-bombers launched the fourth attack of the year against a MIG jet base in North Vietnam Wednesday and used radar to bomb other targets in monsoon rains, U.S. spokesmen said Thursday.

Clouds and rain dropped ceilings to 3,500 feet or less over most of the country. But pilots still managed to put in 75 raids.

Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs sent 750-pound bombs hurtling into the Hoa Lac MIG base 20 miles west of Hanoi. Clouds prevented a damage assessment.

Other F105s streaked into a corner of North Vietnam to bombard the Ky Dong rail spur, 113 miles northwest of Hanoi.

Navy A6 Intruders slammed 500-pound bombs into two small truck convoys.

Viet Fighter Crashes Into Hamlet, Kills 11

SAIGON (UPI) — Vietnamese jet fighter-bomber crashed on take-off from Bien Hoa AB north of Saigon late Thursday and plowed into a hamlet, killing at least 11 persons, it was reported.

The victims included the pilot

Westmoreland, Thieu Brief Ted

SAIGON (UPI)—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy on the last full day of his fact-finding visit to Viet-and 10 Vietnamese civilians in the hamlet about two miles east of the sprawling airfield. Three other civilians were injured.

The jet, one of the new F5 "Freedom Fighters" the United States recently turned over to the South Vietnamese Air Force, had lifted off the runway when it faltered and plunged, according to reports.

No reason was given immediately for the accident. The plane was destroyed.
