That was just a brief synopsis and I feel that there's a whole lot more that needs to go into it before any type of publication. I'd appreciate it.About the photos. Most of the originals have been donated and archived in a place where I only have limited access, however, my entire system (hardware and software alike) has been designed around the restoration, storage and retrireview of extra high quality "reprints" (per se) of such photos. I'll make some reproductions and ship them to you and you can decide. If they're to the standards that is required then I've got plenty beaucoup more (and acquiring more and more continually).My contact data (location in the world most of the time) is:Michael "MadMonk" Bradshaw[REDACTED]
