The picture of the gunship with the tailboom damage was done with captain Kerbi at the controls responding to the attack. The ship was either light on the skids or in a hover when hit. He came into our awards section the next day looking for a medal. The story was Kerbi and crew were able to find another armed ship and take off. He lined up on a mortar tube but instead of firing the rockets he jettisoned the pod.

I enclosed a picture of a chinese mortar round used in the attack that did not explode.
