

Daniel Pope

14 December 1994

Andrew Connelly

Andrew,

Thanks for your letter. No, I was not personally aware of C Company's activation in '73 and I appreciate your letting me know. I find it very interesting.

I spoke with Roy Boatman about it and he says the association has done some research on it. They found that the Army doesn't have anything on file that's really significant in relation to Company C's activities or deployment during that period. That's the Army for you, huh!

I would like to do some more research on it and see what we can come up with. It should be included in our unit history, but we need to come up with additional supporting data such as TO&E, mission, deployment etc.

Do you have any more info and do you know the whereabouts of anyone else who was in the company? If you have any more orders send them to me and I'll try to find some of the guys from their SSN. Send me all the info you can and I'll work on it.

What is 'The School of Hard Knocks'? I know about the one I went through, what's yours about? I can sure identify with FIDO!

Till next time,