Several months ago near the hamlet of Duc Pho about 100 miles south east of Da Nang, units of the Vietnamese Army's 2nd Infantry Division captured a fortified V.C. Village.

Today, after a combined battalion total of 400 men years of jungle warfare training experience, which the 3rd Battalion, 6th Regiment, 2nd Inf. Div. has fighting NVA (North Vietnamese Army) and VC units. The battalion has put together the remains of a VC village and relocated, for training aid purpose, models of the booby traps and other tactical defensive weapons of the village.

For the first time in the Viet Nam War ARVN (Army of the Republic of Viet Nam) with their advisors, are training incoming American Forces to the northern provinces of Viet Nam. The ARVN officers and men, with their advisors, demonstrate the tricks, traps and tactics and other media employed by NVA and VC units. These include booby traps made of bamboo, nails and some home made mine. Some booby traps have been given names; other are so crude, having no names as yet. Station eleven (11) the last of training station within the VC mock village contains such devices as the Bamboo Trip, Spike Trap, Arrow Trap, Punji Pear, Cartridge Trap, Electrical Trap with nails and spikes and the Carbed trap with spikes.

Each class contains 30-50 men about platoon size units. The group covered are from B Company 1st Bn. 14th Inf. of the 19th Light Infantry Brigade, commanded by CPT Hieberger. The classes start at Station (1) and work through to station (11).

Station (1) is a briefing area where Maj. Ngain Battalion commander of the 3rd Bn, 6th Reg of the 2nd INF. DIV., gives an opening briefing to the soldiers prior to their trip through the village. (2) Shows two types of booby traps and speed tactics. Station(3) involves false floors and searching out hidden enemy. Station(4) Shows Friendly Forces searching a village, then fooling around when the VC throw a grenade at them. Station (5) Friendly Forces looking into a hut then the enemy are off camera detonated mines or are killed by setting off trip mine to mines. Station (6) Involves careful searching of a village where the soldier find hidden weapons. Station(7) Deals with searching for enemy supply from local villagers as they carry out there normal duties each day. Station(8) Means of tactics to Friendly with local people. Station (9) Shows Allied forces being lured away to be captured by a group of VC. Station. (10) Has a lesson of not laying down your weapon.

Through out the trip in the village the advisors act as interpreter, while the men of the 3rd Battalion of the 6th Reg. demonstrate what to do. "Army 89" Company through is LO 2 David John Walker an Australian advisor from the jungle training center Omeke, Queensland Australia.
