NARRATIVE SUMMARY

1. Narrative

Extensive effort was directed on building up our new position. Personnel trenches for protection from Mortar/Rocket attacks and sanitation facilities have been completed. Work still continues on the ammunition bunkers and gun pits. The 1st Engineer Battalion started working on the FDC and Medical bunkers.

Also, during the past month each section devoted many man-hours working on Battery equipment and records in preparation for the upcoming CMMI on 6 January 1969.

The following ammunition was expended during the month of December:

Army	MAF	Total
828	2100	2928

The following missions were fired during the month of December:

OBS	UNOBS	H &amp; I's	Total
7	120	427	554

The consolidated surveillance received on missions fired during the month is as follows:

KIA	STRUCTURES DAMAGED/DESTROYED	BUNKERS DAMAGED/DESTROYED	Total

b. Intelligence. The Battery received the majority of their intelligence targets and missions through the 11th Marines. As of 31 December 1968, communications were established with Line Tell, the Army Special Force unit at THOUNG DUC and targets were received direct from their position.

c. Organization and Operations. The Battery's mission is that of general support of the 1st Marine Division.

d. Training. During the period 1-31 December 1968, nineteen hours of formal schooling were held. This included: Section training - eight hours, Weapons Safety Lectures - four hours, defensive drills - three hours, Code of Conduct - one hour, UCMJ - one hour, Embarkation - two hours.

No personnel from this Battery were sent on TAD to any schools.

e. Logistics, Equipment and Supply. Two guns are currently deadlined, one requiring third echelon maintenance and the other second echelon. There is a continuing problem with M100 sights and sight mounts, as well as rear split rings and gas check pads.

Both M6 Limco's are presently deadlined, one with an unserviceable track and the other requiring a new transmission.

f. Civic Action/Civic Affairs. The Battery initiated no civic actions or civil affairs during the month of December. No MedCaps were performed.
