PERSONNEL AND ADMINISTRATION

Broadly speaking, the Battalion's personnel picture continued to improve over the space of the current reporting period. Despite personnel losses through combat attrition and a homebound rotation draft, the Battalion's strength rose from a total count of 572 to a total of 719 officers and men. The net gain in this case may be explained partially through the joining of programmed replacements to this organization, but more important to the increase was the joining of "B" Company, First Tank Battalion heretofore attached to RLT-7. The joining of "B" Company, First Tank Battalion established this organization with four gun companies together with a fourth Flame Tank Section of 12 men. As a result, the battalion T/O was subsequently changed to reflect the figures of 46 officers and 742 enlisted Marines together with two naval officers and 17 navy enlisted. On 30 September 1965 the Battalion comprised 30 officers and 675 enlisted Marines together with two naval officers and 12 navy enlisted. Despite the overall improvement in the Battalion's personnel posture, however, a serious shortage in the 3531 field is being experienced. Administrative deadline of motor vehicles due to a lack of drivers seriously reduces this organization's ability to support its gun companies. Moreover the lack of an interpreter handicaps the Battalion Civil Affairs Program.

Personnel reporting over the period may be characterized as being somewhat untimely, however, this is primarily the result of the time and space factor which exercises much influence on the transmittal of reports and records under the present operating conditions. This command is now deployed over four enclaves encompassing some 270 kilometers and for this reason the flow of paperwork cannot be handled as expeditiously as in a garrison environment with subordinate units closely satellite around their battalion headquarters. The accuracy of personnel reports and other administration continues to be satisfactory.

Morale remains outstanding. Continued improvement of living conditions was evidenced during the current period. The addition of showers, a mobile PX, laundry facilities and more tentage has done much to build up the units morale. The fine quality and large quantity of food prepared and served by the battalion has been a large contributing factor to the high morale of the unit.

During the month of September religious services were provided for both Catholic and Protestant personnel. In addition the Battalion Chaplain conducted communion services and five weekday services. There has been a decided increase in church and chapel attendance.

Unit discipline, like the unit's morale, is very good. The Battalion has experienced only two office hours during the month of September at Battalion level.

SECRETINTELLIGENCE

On 25 September a tank, B-35, 3d platoon Bravo Company detonated a mine presumed to be made of a 105mm shell. The mine was offset (placed so that the detonating device is to the right or left of the mine) and detonated under the escape hatch of the tank. There was no damage to the vehicle and no crew injuries.

On 27 September 3d platoon Bravo Company found a new type of booby trap at BT 0363 presumably to be used against tank/vehicle mounted infantry and exposed crew. The trap is constructed with bamboo poles and barbed wire and utilizes hand grenades (see diagram).

On 26 September a tank, B-35, of 3d platoon Bravo Company was struck by an anti-tank round of undetermined caliber at coordinates (BT 067633). The tank was struck on the gun mantle and penetrated to the depth of 7 inches. Due to striking the heaviest armored part of the tank, the round did not completely penetrate the turret. The tank was able to continue operations. Because of the cover, the AT weapon caliber could not be specifically determined. The depth of the penetration indicates the weapon to be larger than a 57mm recoilless rifle, possibly a CHICOM RPG-2 rocket (Panzerfaust) or a 3.5" rocket.

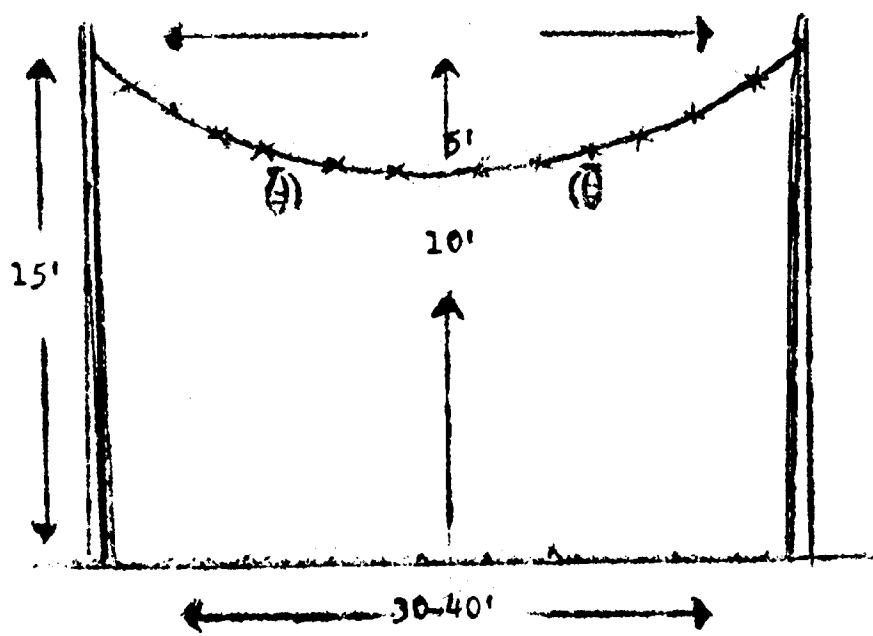

The greatest utilization of tanks and track vehicles has been in the Danang East area, BT 0470 - BT 0970 and BT 0461 - BT 1065. During the month of September tanks detonated one AT mine and have been struck by one anti-tank round. Intelligence reports have indicated a build up of AT mines in the area, but to date the mines have either not been employed or have been evaded by the anti-mine technique of the tank crews.

The greatest intelligence problem so far in Vietnam has been the lack of an interpreter at this Battalion. Effective use could be made of an interpreter, monitored by battalion headquarters and used for security purposes and other specific tasks.

Training

The general state of training in all sections of the 3d Tank Battalion throughout the month of September 1965 was considered excellent. The immediate reaction of tank units to assigned missions indicated a high state of proficiency. Specifically tank fires against enemy positions were rapid and in nearly all cases first round accuracy was achieved. In order to maintain a constant state of readiness, training during the month concentrated in the following areas:

- a. Mechanical functioning and live firing exercises for all small arms, automatic weapons, and major caliber guns organic to the Tank Battalion. Headquarters personnel and those who had recently joined the Battalion received the most concentrated training particularly in the employment of defensive weapons.
- b. Terrain evaluation as it is effected by changing climatic conditions.
- c. Achievement of mutual supporting fires when tanks are operating on more than one axis.
- d. Conduct of the assault under conditions which require all openings in the tank hull to be completely closed.
- e. Communications security and the use of brevity codes and shackle sheets.

After three months experience in combat in Vietnam it has been determined that it is necessary to provide practical and realistic training concerning the special nature of the war here to newly joined personnel. Accordingly prior to reassigning personnel as replacements to the Gun Tank companies a forty hour training program will be conducted commencing during October 1965. This syllabus will include but not be limited to:

- a. Coordination with infantry units in close combat.
- b. Reconnaissance techniques particularly in locating suitable river fords, river crossings, and likely areas for anti-tank weapons and land mines.
- c. Modifications to driving techniques required by deep sand, steep slopes, flooded lowlands, and dense jungle.
- d. Location and removal of enemy anti-personnel explosive devices.
- e. Duties and responsibilities of tank liaison personnel.

Tank Combat Operations

Throughout the month of September 1965 tank operations occurred on nearly a daily basis in the wide sandy coastal plain southeast of the city of Danang, Republic of Vietnam. During the last two weeks of August one platoon from Company B had operated in that area. However, the terrain proved to be so favorable for tank employment that the entire company was relocated to Marble Mountain (BT 070714) to allow expanded tank activity in pursuit of the Viet Cong.

With either a tank section or platoon in direct support, the two forward rifle companies of the 1st Battalion, 9th Marines conducted tank-infantry patrols into the villages and hamlets north of grid line (BT 66) between the ~~area~~ Vinh Dien and the South China Sea. On 1 September ~~the~~ patrol drew a very heavy volume of small arms fire near (BT 082695). The fire was returned, destroying two enemy positions and silencing the small arms. For the next few days the patrols continued daily activity leaving their defensive positions at dawn and returning during the early afternoon. Insignificant amounts of sniper fire occurred on each patrol but until 9 September, the location of the enemy could not be determined due to dense growth and the enemy's failure to give any evidence of his position. On 9 September the pattern of morning patrols was terminated and a seven tank patrol moved out at 1610H. At 1710H contact was made with a substantial enemy force near Tra Khe (3) (BT 081665). Tank fire was immediately returned and during the engagement the enemy suffered two KIA and twenty WIA by count. During the action a tank platoon sergeant was critically wounded with a gunshot wound in the back of the head which had passed through the ballistic helmet he was wearing and emerged under the right earphone. Enemy mortar fire was directed against the tanks at the beginning of the action. The tanks sustained no damage although the infantry mounted on the tank received a number of serious wounds.

Following this engagement the enemy forces, reported as a Battalion, moved out of the area to the west and no further contact was made until 11 September. At approximately 2000H 11 September a tank-infantry combat patrol encountered a small enemy force near (BT 042673) and (BT 043664). The targets were engaged by the tanks and the Viet Cong suffered two KIA.

On 12 September operational emphasis in the 1st Battalion, 9th Marines TAOR began to switch from aggressive combat patrolling to providing security for the rice harvest. Tanks were used to escort shipments of rice and to assist in sweep and clear operations over an extended area to prevent the Viet Cong from exacting their crop tax.

ENCLOSURE (5)

DECLASSIFIED

DECLASSIFIED

Concurrent with these essentially defensive operations, tank crewmen conducted extensive foot reconnaissance patrols with infantry elements to determine routes of advance for future tank operations south of grid line (BT 66).

On 18 September tank-infantry patrols resumed along the eastern border of the coastal plain. Sniper fire was received from inland positions which were not accessible to the tanks or infantry due to intervening bodies of water. The same situation continued until 23 September when a large portion of the 1st Battalion, 9th Marines and supporting weapons conducted a complete house to house search operation of the entire area north from grid line (BT 66) to (BT 70) between north south grid line (BT 07) and the Song Vinh Diem. Three Viet Cong were killed during this operation which found the entire tank company, reinforced, operating as a sweeping and blocking force along the entire east flank of the maneuvering infantry battalion. Reinforcing elements for this operation included an infantry platoon, an amphibian tractor platoon, and a section of Ontos all under the operational control of the Commanding Officer, Company B, 3d Tank Battalion.

On 25 September, responding to intelligence information that enemy units and explosives were located near grid square (BT 0565), tanks conducted two patrols into that area. At 0810H a large explosion occurred directly under the hull of a tank having been activated by an initiating device located under the track. The tank was jolted quite sharply although no personnel casualties were sustained and the tank proceeded on its mission. Both patrols received considerable small arms fire but no concentrations of Viet Cong could be located. One enemy was wounded and two suspects detained.

In following-up on the activity of 25 September a tank platoon size patrol moved to the extreme west of the sandy coastal plain during the morning of 26 September. Late in the afternoon while returning from their limit of advance, the tanks encountered a significant force at (BT 062635) near the hamlet of Phong Ho (1). Shortly after the fire fight began at 1530H an enemy anti-tank shell struck a tank slightly up and to the left of where the gun enters the main hull. Penetration was incomplete although two Marines were wounded in the action. Two other anti-tank rounds were fired at the tank and exploded under the hull without inflicting any damage. All indications were that the anti-tank weapon was probably a 57mm recoilless rifle fired from a covered and concealed position. During the intense action tanks fired at numerous enemy targets destroying a number of structures and observing many enemy dead.

Since the size of the infantry unit was small a search was not conducted and the tanks returned to their defensive positions just prior to darkness.

On 27 September another platoon size patrol entered Phong Ho (1) to again be met by determined and significant enemy strength. It appeared that the enemy was trying to maneuver the friendly forces into a trap. Accordingly contact was momentarily broken and the tanks moved north into a covered area awaiting reinforcements. At 1500H a seven tank unit with a complete infantry company returned to the scene of the previous action. A large volume of tank fire was directed on enemy positions and rather than fight the larger force the enemy withdrew to the north and west into dense hedgerows and trenches thus breaking contact with the Marine tank-infantry force. This last action was observed by the Tank Battalion Commander, airborne in an H-34 helicopter 1200 feet above the battle area. The Viet Cong suffered at least seven killed during this action in addition to the destruction of numerous defensive positions.

Recognizing that the Viet Cong preferred not to remain engaged with a tank force of platoon size or larger modifications were made to the tactical employment of tanks in the coastal plain on the evening of 27 September. Rather than having the tanks accompany the infantry on the same line, it was decided to have the infantry precede the tanks by at least 1000 meters. Once the infantry had located and isolated the enemy force, the tanks would maneuver rapidly from their concealed positions to the point of contact and bring their superior firepower and shock action to bear on the course of battle.

On 28 September an infantry squad patrol moved to (BT 103645) where they encountered heavy resistance. A tank reaction force located 1500 meters to the north responded rapidly, closed with the enemy before they could escape, and killed three and wounded two others. In this action there were no friendly casualties.

During the final two days of September Company B returned to a defensive posture and completed required maintenance services while planning continued tank operations south of grid line (BT 66).

Tank offensive operations for the remaining three companies of the Battalion were limited during the month of September 1965. Company A in direct support of the 3d Marine Regiment positioned one tank on Hill 41 (AT 934663) and one tank on Hill 22 (AT 953667) in the southwestern portion of the DaNang enclave. The vital Nam O Bridge at (AT 929841) was defended by three tanks in coordination with a Vietnamese Regional Force Platoon.

[REDACTED]

During September activity in the 3d Marines area was generally quiet except in the mountains to the west which are inaccessible to tanks.

The 3d platoon of Company A, attached to the 3d Battalion, 4th Marines at Phu Bai periodically occupied strong points on the highway 1 approaches to the TAOR. The assignment of the platoon as part of the Battalion reaction force remained the primary mission of this unit.

Company C, located at Chu Lai, maintained one platoon in direct support and under the operational control of each of the three Battalions of the 4th Marines. The first and second platoons occupied strong points along the MLR of the 1st Battalion, 4th Marines and the 2d Battalion, 4th Marines. Each of these platoons was assigned the mission of providing harassing and interdiction fires into the dense jungle in the high ground west of the TAOR. Approximately twenty rounds of ammunition [REDACTED] expended each day by each platoon on three or four different target areas. The third platoon in direct support of the 3d Battalion, 3d Marines embarked aboard ship on 5 September as part of the reserve element for Operation Piranha. Since the reserve elements were not committed the platoon returned to Chu Lai disembarking on 11 September. This platoon then assumed the function as the tank element in the Regimental reaction force while the 3d Battalion, 3d Marines was temporarily assigned to the DaNang enclave. On 22 September four tanks from this platoon crossed the Song An Tan River at (BS 494065) and occupied defensive positions on Hill 69 (BS 469069). These tanks occupy the most critical terrain feature in the Battalion's TAOR and are capable of providing direct fire support to all units on the MLR.

Company B, 1st Tank Battalion, attached to the Seventh Marines at Chu Lai participated in Operation Piranha from 5-11 September. Landing over Green Beach on the morning of 7 September the Company moved along the beach to the south to a point along a high escarpment at (BS 774858). Here the steep terrain prevented further inland movement. The Company remained in this location for the remainder of the operation providing direct fire support to the maneuvering infantry elements. Since opposition was scattered and weak the tanks were not required to fire and the company returned to Chu Lai on the morning of 11 September. For the remainder of the month the company provided two tanks at the southern roadblock on highway 1 and retained the other tanks in the company as a reaction force.

The Tank Battalion Command Post is on a high ridge line 800 meters north of the Song Cau Do River at (AT 988711). On the east is the village of Phong Bac and on the west the hamlet of Yen Bac. Fifteen hundred Vietnamese citizens reside within five hundred meters of the perimeter wire. All available evidence indicates that the indigenous personnel in this vicinity have been neutral in this war since their land is on the border between the strong government influence in DaNang and the long standing Viet Cong influence in the hamlets south of the river. The river system is the major means of communications into the interior where Viet Cong control is strongest. Accordingly enemy terrorism, threats, harassments, and propaganda have played a significant part in the lives of the nearby residents. This situation required that careful control be exercised in the immediate vicinity of the Battalion Command Post in order to gain the confidence of local residents and yet show a significant degree of force which would indicate to the enemy that this area was not a lucrative target. Under these circumstances patrol, ambush, and sweeping operations were modified in this particular area.

In coordination with the headquarters of the 3d Anti-Tank Battalion, the First Amphibian Tractor Battalion, the 9th Marine Regiment, and the Hoa Cam Regional Forces Training Center joint patrols were conducted on two occasions during the month of September. On 19 September a nearby village official was assassinated 800 meters from the Battalion Command Post. The Tank Battalion Headquarters Alert Force, composed of food services, maintenance, and supply personnel responded immediately and established a blocking position between the perimeter and the river to the south while a sweeping force from the 2d Battalion, 9th Marines was helilifted into the area. The search and sweep operation failed to determine the identity or location of the assassin.

The next special operation occurred on 27 September when a reinforced squad from H&S Company again blocked the major avenues of approach andgress from the local villages while a sweeping force composed of a squad of Regional Forces (RVN) and a squad from the 3d Anti-Tank Battalion, which had landed by amphibian tractor at (AT 975700), maneuvered in an easterly direction. This joint operation, which carefully considered the lives and property of the local residents, indicated that the enemy still retained some influence in this area but more importantly revealed, for the first time, that the nearby civilian population was beginning to accept and appreciate the protection and humane treatment provided by this and adjacent friendly units.

In another special operation an AN/TPS-21 was installed on the engine access doors of an M48A3 Tank. The tracking instrument was securely fastened to the vehicle with wire and sandbags. By being in such close proximity to the fire control system of the tank the deflection and elevation readings received by the AN/TPS-21 operator can be placed on the tank firing instruments without additional calculations. Six rounds of tank ammunition were fired during September using this system. Target surveillance could not be verified since the area was inaccessible due to dense jungle growth.

Communications - Electronics

Battery life has been cut considerably by the heat conditions in Vietnam. A possible remedy would be some type of refrigeration unit for battery storage in the Battalion. This problem exists throughout the Division.

During Operation Starlight the antenna mast base, MP-65, was damaged by shrapnel and small arms fire preventing radio communications. This difficulty was alleviated by placing a metal shield around the porcelain antenna base so as to prevent fragments or small arms from destroying effective communications.

The 3d Tank Battalion command post is on the MLR requiring the maintenance of numerous defensive positions and accordingly increased telephone communications. At present the phones in defensive positions are on temporary loan from other organizations. Operational commitments require the wide separation of the tank gun companies from the Tank Battalion headquarters. This situation has indicated a need for additional test equipment at the Tank Company level. Recommended T/E changes have been submitted for the companies to add one AN/URM-48 signal generator, one ME-25 volt meter, and one AN/URM-43 watt meter. With these new items of test equipment a 9.7 KW generator would be required.

A recommendation to include a AN/PRC-47 on the T/E for each Tank Company has also been submitted. This requirement was generated by the wide separation between companies in Vietnam and the necessity for reliable communications under all battle conditions.

It has been found that the use of brevity codes and authentication and shackle cypher systems are essential in this type of war. Increased training and use has proved to be invaluable to this battalion in insuring secure communications.

LOGISTICS

1. During the month of September the availability and distribution of Class I and III supply has been excellent. The availability of Class II has been fair except for selected items such as Pistol Holsters, the light weight tropical combat boot. Availability of Class III spare parts has been unsatisfactory. Supply of Class IV Fortification Materials has been very unpredictable and consequently the availability of it can not be counted upon. Class V availability has been excellent except for certain illumination items.

2. A definite fast wear trend in the life of Tank Track, Tank Track Sprockets, Batteries, and Torsion Bars is evident. The coral sand, the extreme temperature, and extensive operation has contributed to this trend. The stockage objective of these parts was not realistic, particularly in view of the excessive lead time involved in the chain of resupply and the operating environment in RVN. An up to date stockage objective is being established for all Tank and Motor Transport Spare Parts.

3. At this time there is no availability of many spare parts. Requisition and Tracer Action has been accomplished on every priority 02, 05 and some selected 12 and 17 priorities. An example of excessive lead time is as follows.

Priority	No. of Requisitions	No. Filled	% Filled
02	129	13	10.1
05	647	22	3.4
12	711	22	3.1
17	132	6	4.5

4. Generally Tank support has been provided when requested. However due to the short remaining life and non availability of such items as track, sprockets, and batteries, operational requirements must be screened to ensure a true necessity. Actually there are only 11 Tanks Deadlined. Six of these are B.Co. 1st Tank Battalion tanks which have a history of Fuel Injector Pump problems.

5. Our success in providing Tank Support during this period of spare parts non availability is due to the outstanding preventive maintenance performed by the crews and the professional ability and ingenuity of the maintenance personnel of the Battalion.

CIVIL AFFAIRS

Prior to 21 September the battalion civil affairs program consisted mainly of a well organized medical treatment effort conducted by the Battalion Medical Officer and his assistants. Also during this period the Battalion Civil Affairs Officer organized specific projects with limited objectives. The main long range program has been the training of two civilian girls, ages 14 and 16 years, as nurses. Their performance has been favorably reported on by the Battalion Medical Officer.

The Battalion Civil Affairs Officer organized a party for the children of Phuoc Bao Hamlet (AT 989711) in celebration of CHILDRENS' TET, 10 September. Cookies, milk, candy and chewing gum were distributed to the children. Also a small amount of clothing, received through the Handclasp program, was distributed to the adults.

After 21 September the civil affairs program was expanded. On 24 September the Battalion Commander paid a social visit to the family of the Chief of Hoa Tho Village, Hoa Vang District. Later on he had a conference with the Chief to determine what assistance the 3d Tank Battalion could provide his village. It was decided that improvement of the village school was needed. The school has a student body of 150 and a faculty of 4 teachers. The curriculum is 1-4th grades. The biggest necessity is school supplies. The school also needs blackboards, roof repair and a concrete deck. Two blackboards and a large supply of chalk were presented to the school by the Battalion Commander on the following day. School supplies were ordered through CARE. It was decided to requisition cement and roofing tin through official channels of the Vietnamese government. A parallel requisition will be submitted through U.S. Advisory channels.

On 31 September the Battalion Civil Affairs Officer received 2000 lbs grain food, cooking oil, candy and soap from Division Civil Affairs. The commodities were provided by the Catholic Relief Society and will be distributed to the local villagers on an as needed basis.

Other than the treatment of superficial injuries, it is difficult to have an efficient civil affairs program without the use of a regular interpreter. So far the lack of an interpreter has delayed certain activities that could have been otherwise easily completed.

SECTION XI

Company C (Rein) 3rd Tank Battalion, FAF

1. Organizational data:

a. This company is reinforced with a flame tank section consisting of three flame tanks. We are in general support of the 4th Marines, with tank platoons in direct support of 1/4, 2/4 and 3/3.

b. This report covers the period of 1 September to 30 September 1965.

c. Company C was commanded by Captain Joe P. SANDE during the reporting period. Other by billet assignments were:

Executive Officer - 1st Lieutenant James D. SPARKS

First Sergeant - 1st Sergeant Donald R. ARGETSLIGER

Gunnery Sergeant - Master Sergeant David BLANCO

d. Our average monthly strength was 4 officers and 108 enlisted.

2. Significant events:

A great deal of our efforts during the month as a result of participation in Operation Starlight, which occurred 18-25 August, were directed at getting our M4A3 tanks back in shape to perform our mission. Of significant value was the speed with which we received replacement vehicles for those lost or destroyed through enemy action. On 1 September we had two replacement tanks, complete, for the two M4A3's we lost on Starlight. This was the first time for many years that a tank company has operated at such a great distance from the parent battalion. Even with the lack of parts experienced, we have in many cases fabricated parts to keep 3 platoons of tanks on the MIR with the infantry. Almost all of our vehicles are in prepared revetments along the MIR. Range Cards have been maintained by every vehicle and tanks have fired numerous H&I fire missions in support of the infantry battalions. Nearly every night the 18" tank searchlights were used to illuminate along the MIR. On 12 September we completed 10 hours of training and familiar firing of the 50 caliber machine gun as per current instructions.

On 23 September we attempted for the first time to ford tanks across the Song An Tan River. Extensive reconnaissance work was done prior to the fording. The purpose was to provide tanks to the infantry unit on the Hill 69 complex, (I Company 3/3). We forded with no problems. A tank bulldozer M-8 was used at Hill 69 to improve the existing access road and to dig revetments for future positions. Four antipersonnel mines were detonated by the tanks during the period of 25 to 27 September. We completed the re-creation of tanks at Hill 69, and the tanks, and another tank, were brought back across the Song An Tan. However the channel had changed some but, as a result of the new channel, both tanks became mired in the middle of the river, the tide was rising and one tank, A-31, became partially submerged before it could be retrieved. Trafficability of terrain is our biggest obstacle in performing our mission.

We have begun to work on this obstacle by reconnaissance of trafficable routes for tanks within the TAOR. Overlays of trafficable areas have been started and should be ready sometime in October.
