1. Purpose. To broaden existing training coverage in the category of General Military Training to include and emphasize information and education specifically related to the MACV area of operation.

2. References. Reference (a) is the basic training directive for enlisted Marines. References (b) and (c) direct expansion of the basic training program to specifically ensure that all personnel serving in the Republic of Vietnam are given an opportunity to receive information and education on Vietnam. Reference (d) directed an indoctrination program for Marines leaving Vietnam, and reference (e) directed the immediate implementation of the training and indoctrination programs by all commanders on the timely and continuing basis.

3. Policy. It is the policy of this organization to require all commanding officers to implement immediately, an expanded training program to ensure that all personnel serving in Vietnam are given an opportunity to receive educational information on Vietnam, and the required indoctrination prior to leaving Vietnam.

4. Instructional Topics

a. Although not to be construed as limited in scope, an understanding by each individual of the following subject areas will contribute to the successful accomplishment of the information program:

- (1) "Why we are Here"
- (2) "Relationships with the Vietnamese People"
- (3) "Vietnamese History, Culture and Customs"
- (4) "The Military Assistance Command, Vietnam (MACV); Missions and Objectives"

- (6) "Topics of Local Interest"
- (7) "The Nature of the Viet Cong"
- (8) "Monthly Recapitulations of Military Activities in Vietnam"

9. "The Code of Conduct; Discipline and Conduct"

b. Many Marines returning from Vietnam are interviewed by news media representatives. Most interviews concentrate on personal reaction to duty in Vietnam, but almost invariably include leading questions regarding the war in general. Impudent answers to these questions can have an unfavorable effect on the war effort. When damage is done, it is usually because of limited observation, a lack of information, or a lack of understanding of our role in Vietnam. Thoughtless comments of this nature can create an erroneous impression and degrade the excellent record earned by Marines in defeating the Viet Cong and providing assistance to the Vietnamese people through the Civic Action Program. However, the indoctrination should not in any way seek to preclude a Marine from speaking about his unclassified experiences, but rather should stress the matter of accuracy, avoidance of exaggeration and hearsay, and should ensure that every Marine leaving Vietnam understands just why he has been here, and what adverse effect any frivolous comments may have on his comrades left behind.

5. Language Training. Directly associated with the purpose of the goals of this program is the need for language training. Battalion, and ~~separate~~ company commanders are encouraged to initiate language training from whatever resources are available to the maximum extent practicable, consistent with operational commitments.

6. Assistance from Vietnamese Civilian and Military Personnel. It is both desirable and proper to solicit participation by Vietnamese civilian and military personnel in the presentation of topics related to the history and culture of the Republic of Vietnam. In order to achieve this, battalion and ~~separate~~ company commanders are encouraged to utilize English speaking Vietnamese from the local area. If such persons are not available or the results are unsatisfactory, assistance may be requested from this Headquarters.

7. Treatment of Captured Personnel. Each battalion and ~~separate~~ company will bring the following specific policy guidance for the treatment of captured personnel to the attention of each member of his unit.

a. Captives are in the power and custody of the detaining power, but not the individual or military units who have captured them.

b. Each unit is responsible for the handling of captives whom it apprehends.

c. Captives will in all circumstances be treated humanely while in the custody of U.S. Forces, and must be protected against any and all acts of violence.

d. No violence will be done to their person, no outrages of any kind committed against them, and, pending delivery to higher headquarters, the wounded and sick will be cared for.

8. Reports. At the present time no formal reporting is required, however, all commanders should be prepared to provide on relatively short notice, the following data:

- a. Number of orientation briefings conducted within each month
- b. Number of personnel attending such briefings
- c. Subjects or topics of each briefing
- d. Comments to improve the program
- e. Two copies of all materials produced in support of this program.

9. Action. Battalion and separate company commanders will immediately implement a broadened program of individual training and education to encompass topic areas specifically related to the commitment of this Regiment in Vietnam. Enclosure (1) will be read by every officer and non-commissioned officer and be read by appropriate commanders to all other enlisted personnel. STATEMENT OF SECRETARY OF STATE DEAN RUSK

The United States would like to see Hanoi and Peiping and Moscow and others to a conference table and find a peaceful solution in Vietnam. Many efforts to seek a peaceful settlement have been made by the United States and others: Through bilateral diplomacy, the machinery of the Geneva Conference, the machinery of the United Nations, the appeals of India, the proposed Commonwealth Peace Mission, President Johnson's offer of unconditional discussion, and all sorts of public and private initiatives. But Hanoi and Peiping have turned down all suggestions for a peaceful settlement.

Meanwhile, the United States is continuing to meet its commitment in Vietnam. This is a simple commitment: To assist the government and people of South Vietnam to preserve their independence. Hanoi has been sending tens of thousands of armed men into the south.

It was said in Peiping recently that the object in South Vietnam is capitulation of the United States.

The United States is not going to capitulate, but, on the other hand, we do not want or ask for surrender by Hanoi, or surrender by Peiping. All we are asking them to do is stop shooting at people at whom they have no right to shoot, and take home the people that have infiltrated into South Vietnam, including some of the regular North Vietnamese armed forces. The objective of the exercise is that Hanoi and Peiping learn to live at peace with their neighbors.

Many of the questions in regard to the prosecution of the War in Vietnam concern bombing of targets in North Vietnam. The United States has no desire to inflict damage upon the civilian population of North Vietnam, nor indeed upon the daily livelihood of these people. U. S. planes have been hitting the northwestern part of the country: such things as ammunition dumps, depots for gasoline and oil to supply the infiltration forces, barracks, radar sites and military targets of that sort.

The United States is not waging war upon the civilian population of North Vietnam, nor the North Vietnamese regime as such. The United States has never undertaken to ~~destroy~~ that regime, but simply wants them to stop bothering their neighbors. We hope very much that they will realize, before this gets into a much larger conflict, that this is the essential purpose.

The bombing attacks on military installations in the north have had an important practical effect upon the ability of the north to support or to increase the support of their effort in South Vietnam.

The United States had never expected that bombing in itself would be a decisive element. But it is important that the aggressors have discovered that they are not going to be permitted to send tons of thousands of guerrillas to attack South Vietnam while continuing to live in safety and comfort there in the north.

DECLASSIFIED

Regt O 1510. 1
15 October 1965

The idea of the sanctuary is dead as far as this situation is concerned; and that is something that all of the others who may be supporting Hanoi must take fully into account.

The Viet Cong have been suffering very substantial casualties in the past few weeks, not only in infantry action but also from bombing. Nevertheless it would seem that the refusal of Hanoi and Peiping to come to the conference table is based upon their hope that they will achieve something substantial during these next weeks and months. But that is not going to happen, because the United States will do what is required to prevent it.

Current Viet Cong operations are basically still in what might be called the guerrilla stage; they still are attacking undefended district towns and the civilian population. They have not sustained a battalion in combat for more than a day or two at a time.

However, it is known that regular forces from North Vietnam have been moved into Laos and into South Vietnam. That is an increase in the scale of the operation that requires increased action on the part of the South Vietnamese and on the part of the United States. The coming weeks and months may be a difficult time.

The central point remains the fact of the U. S. commitment in South Vietnam. The integrity of the commitment has a major bearing upon similar commitments of the United States in other parts of the world; and the integrity of the American commitment is the principal pillar of peace in the present world.

Since 1945 there have been many episodes in which the communist world has resorted to force. They left behind troops in Iran with the aim of taking over that country. Guerrillas came down from Bulgaria and Yugoslavia against Greece. There was a blockade of Berlin, there was the massive invasion of South Korea. There have been many efforts in this Post-war period to take over neighbors by force.

The United States and its allies in the Free World have had to meet these attacks. We have met them with stubbornness, with determination, and also with a certain restraint, in the interests of trying to find a peaceful settlement that is tolerable for the liberty of men.

This is because the American people and most of their friends abroad are dedicated to the idea of building a peaceful and decent world order. The problem is how to bring these acts of aggression under control, to turn them back and in the process organize a more stable peace in the world. That has been, and is, the objective of U. S. policy.

President Johnson has made it clear that the United States, in accordance with its simple commitment, will do what is required in Vietnam.

GUIDE FOR TOP OP INDOCTRINATION

Marines -

Welcome to Vietnam -- many people have asked why are we here? The answer to that is relatively simple. We are here to stop the spread of Communism; stop it before it spreads further, enslaves more people, takes over in all of Southeast Asia. We cannot stand aside and let nation after nation fall into virtual slavery until finally it threatens our country or mankind.

As it was in Korea, once again the freedom of people is being seriously challenged. This time the scene is Vietnam. The character of the threat is somewhat different but the basic concept using suppression and aggression to force a false doctrine upon a population is the same. We have been asked to come to the aid of this population, but make no mistake, it is as much our fight as theirs. Had this threat to free people gone unchallenged, all of Southeast Asia would have been lost, next year it would be another country and perhaps in a decade our own USA. So then, today, our challenge is here in Vietnam.

Many people have also asked why do the Communists want Southeast Asia? The most obvious, of course, is that it would give them a stepping stone to the South China Sea and the Indian Ocean. Eventually they would build seaports at Danang, Saigon, Bangkok and Rangoon. It would put them closer to the rich areas of Australia and New Zealand. If they were to oust the United States Forces and its allies in Southeast Asia it would serve as a further incentive to attempt aggression in other parts of the world. It would mean a breakdown of faith in the ability and desire of the U. S. to support freedom seeking countries. That is why they want this country as a start and why we are here to prevent their taking it.

Since we are here there are certain basic things we should know and practice:

Number One: Remember we are guests in Vietnam -- these people have been fighting for a long time against the Communists. They need and deserve our help because it is our fight too. They have asked us to come and help and we are here to do just that; without asking favors or special privileges.

Number Two: We'll have better allies among them if we get to know them. Really join them! Learn about the way they live, respect their way of life, their customs -- their laws. Remember it's their country -- learn as much of their language as you can -- even a few words or phrases will help you in many ways.

Number Three: Be polite to their women, respect them as you would your own mothers, sisters, wives or sweethearts. This will go a long way in winning over the people who are sitting on the fence -- wonder who they are then you are the monsters the Viet Cong claim you are.

DECLASSIFIED

Regt O 1510.
15 October 1965

Number Four: Make friends with their soldiers and the rest of the people. They can be a big help to you - you may be fighting side by side with them or depending on them to guard your rear and flanks. It is to your advantage!

Number Five: Give the Vietnamese the right of way whether you are walking or driving - remember, as I said, it is their country. You are bigger than they are physically - our cars & trucks are more powerful than theirs - be a little patient - don't push them around.

Number Six: The Vietnamese are a quiet people - they don't approve of loud, unusual behavior or sky-larking. They are dignified - try to match their dignity.

Number Seven: The long time they have been fighting has made many of them poor. By their standards - all of us are wealthy - don't make a public display of your money and what you have that they don't. By the same token don't over-pay them for what you buy - this only hurts the whole system.

Number Eight: Remember, you are representing the United States and the Marine Corps in every way - whether you are fighting or on liberty. Be smart - Shape up - Be a Marine in every way!

Number Nine: Be alert no matter where you are - the Viet Cong cannot be identified by appearance alone - be ready to react in the manner in which you have been trained.

If you will follow those nine points we'll go a long way to winning this fight - we will gain the confidence and help of the people and that is really what we want.

From the standpoint of fighting - we have a tough, slippery and smart enemy. But we've got most of the marbles - we've got air superiority, we've got the artillery, we've got the ships and most of all we've got the training! We are beginning to hurt the Viet Cong badly - he is hungry and becoming desperate - he has never fought an enemy that fights the way we do - our fire teams and squads can and have fought him - beat him on his own ground - by being smarter, tougher and more aggressive. He is finding out what it means to fight a trained military force instead of murdering defenseless village chiefs, school teachers, medical technicians, and kidnapping doctors and other officials as he has done.

We have come a long way in recent months - but we still have a long way to go. This is one we've got to win and I'm looking to you Marines to give your best at all times. We cannot afford to let Communism take over in this country - if we do most of Southeast Asia is lost - the Viet Cong know it - we know it - lets win this one big!

STATEMENTS CONCERNING QUESTIONS OF INTEREST TO VIETNAMESE

Recently, military personnel were asked a series of questions by Vietnamese relating to American policy in Vietnam. Inasmuch as these questions reflected a recognized general Vietnamese concern in specific areas, the Joint United States Public Affairs Officer has prepared a series of answers to those questions. The answers provided background information relative to the problem, present the policy of the United States Government in connection with the problem, and set forth the reasons for the United States adopting that policy.

These questions and answers are presented to American military personnel so that they might be conversant with matters which are of vital concern to the Vietnamese. In addition, presentation and discussion of these questions and answers ~~should enable American servicemen to~~ present the United States position with clarity and understanding in discussion with Vietnamese personnel.

QUESTION ONE: What does the United States desire from the people and the Government of Vietnam when the war has ended?

SUGGESTED ANSWER: Let us begin with what the U. S. does not desire. On August 3, President Johnson stated that "We don't want an inch of territory. We don't want a single base." This was reiterated by Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara during a television interview August 9: "We do not seek permanent military bases in South Vietnam. We do not seek to force the South Vietnamese into an alliance with western nations." On August 12, President Johnson again said: "We are not there to substitute our effort for theirs, but to supplement their own brave, gallant and continuing effort of defending themselves. Our determination is built on their determination. The U. S. would never undertake the sacrifice of these efforts required if its help were not wanted and requested."

The U. S. desires, therefore, nothing from the people of Vietnam when the war has ended. It has, however, great hopes for the people of Vietnam when the war has ended. These hopes were eloquently stated by President Johnson in his 28 July 1965 White House address:

"...We insist and we will always insist that the people of South Vietnam shall have the right of choice, the right to shape their own destiny in free elections in the South, or throughout all Vietnam under international supervision; and they shall not have any government imposed upon them by force and terror so long as we can prevent it...I hope that one day we can help all the people of Asia toward the desire for a life of fruitful and rewarding toil -- not as the price of peace, for we are ready always to bear a more painful cost, but rather as a part of our obligations of justice toward our fellow men."

In his 7 April 1965 speech on a greatly expanded cooperative effort for economic development in Southeast Asia, President Johnson said:

Regt O 1510.

cation for attacking every such place. Until their ultimate use can reasonably be predicted, military stores for local use are indistinguishable from those for export. When such stores threaten the borders of Vietnam, they are subject to surveillance. When they enter the territorial limits of the RVN, they are brought under attack. To accomplish this an increasingly extensive and effective interdiction apparatus is now being used. This apparatus combines land, sea and air resources; its capability improves daily. Furthermore, the U. S. maintains an attitude of patience toward Cambodia, realizing that to an appreciable degree Cambodian Government attitudes concerning the Vietnam war are the result of great pressures being exerted by Communist China.

QUESTION SIX: With all of the U. S. troops here, why don't you conduct a large scale operation to win the war?

SUGGESTED ANSWER: In the face of superior GVN/US strength, the Viet Cong are unable to organize and sustain many large-sized military units. The scattered, small units of the Viet Cong usually are not, therefore, appropriate targets for large-scale operations. Whenever and wherever the Viet Cong do dare and are able to muster a large-size force, GVN/US forces can and do mount large-scale operations and annihilate (as at Chu Lai). Small VC units obviously are incapable of winning the war or of providing effective security against GVN/US offensives, but they do harass and cause harm to the Government and the people. As GVN/US military power continues to grow, these small VC units are being systematically hunted down and eliminated.

Your supervision of the embarkation of the Regimental Communications Section from Hawaii to Okinawa allowed for an efficient and speedy debarkation. Immediately upon landing at Chu Lai, Vietnam you aggressively supervised the installation and maintenance of over two hundred miles of telephone lines within the enclave. Many times you exhibited personal courage and leadership as you led wire laying and trouble-shooting teams during night operations under hazardous combat conditions. In spite of a critical shortage of spare parts, you have, with technical skill and professional competence been able to maintain a complex regimental telephone system.

Your high standard of leadership, "can-do" attitude and attention to duty have served as an inspiration to your men and has gained the admiration and confidence of your superiors. Performance of duty such as you have exhibited serves to carry on the high traditions of the Marine Corps."

Ref: (a) III MAF Order 2305.1

1. Purpose. To prescribe the circumstances under which operation code names may be used in official messages, reports and documents.

2. Background. It has been traditionally permissible to use a code name to designate a particular operation of significant size and/or interest. Use of code names provides an easy reference to identify an operation. Assignment of code names for company size and smaller operations and operations of a short duration are superfluous and only confuse reporting procedures.

3. Action.

a. In accordance with reference (a), code names will be given to battalion size and/or larger operations which are planned for at least 48 hours duration. Use of such code names in official messages, reports and plans are authorized. A battalion size operation is considered to be a minimum of two infantry companies and a battalion command group.

b. Operations of company size and smaller will not be designated by code names. Operations of significant interest of less than battalion size may be assigned a code name only upon approval of Headquarters, III MAF. 1. Purpose. To set forth instructions and procedures that apply in accordance with reference (a), when a helicopter is forced down in an unsecure area within the areas of responsibility of this Regiment or when this organization is asked to assist in the protection, recovery and/or destruction of a downed helicopter.

2. General

a. Notification of a downed helicopter will be sent immediately to Landshark Alpha who will in turn notify the MAG-36 Operations Officer. Notification via land line will be accomplished by contacting the local operator, declaring an emergency and contacting Landshark Alpha via the Afterglow switchboard. Notification via radio shall be accomplished via the TAR net ((HF)) or TAD nets ((UHF)).

(1) Provide assistance to crews in evacuating aircraft, removing guns, maps and all classified material and protecting the aircraft until the arrival of assistance or until valid orders are received to abandon or destroy the aircraft.

(2) Notify Landshark Alpha of downed aircraft. This report should include the following information:

(a) Aircraft location (coordinates and/or positions relative to known terrain features)

(b) Condition of aircraft and crew members

Subj: Messhall Operation within the Regimental Command Post

1. Purpose. To publish procedures for the operation of the messhalls located within the Regimental Command Post, to establish a committee composed of unit mess representatives, and to assign responsibilities for the operation of the messhall.
2. Background. The messhall operated by Headquarters Company, 4th Marines is responsible for subsisting over 550 persons who reside within the Regimental Command Post; these persons are members of Division, Regimental and Separate Company units, detachments and groups. Because the Headquarters Company Table of Organization and Table of Equipment are designed to support only the Headquarters Company personnel, it is necessary for subsisted units to furnish equipment and personnel to support themselves.
3. General Information. FLSU #1 is the only source for feedstuffs. The messhall draws rations on the basis of those authorized subsistence on each unit's ration statement. At the present time Alpha Rations (fresh frozen foods which require refrigeration) are in limited supply. Alpha Rations are augmented by Bravo Rations (canned, packaged or dried foodstuffs; refrigeration not required). Accordingly the messhall must prepare meals from the ingredients available and because there is no source for local food, all ingredients must be transported into this area from sources located in the continental United States. This long lead time, coupled with the increased number of persons subsisted from FLSU #1 assets, makes evident the fact that at times the menu will be less than desired. Items such as bread and ice which are manufactured by FLSU #1 are dependent upon machinery; when this machine becomes inoperable, the pro-rated share of these items will decrease.
4. Action. To more effectively utilize available assets and to achieve improved messhall operation, the following action is directed.
 - a. The Mess Officer for the Regimental Command Post will be appointed by this Headquarters.
 - b. A Mess Committee will be established composed of representatives from each unit and group subsisting in the Headquarters Company messhall. Each unit will designate Mess NCO's as follows:

(2) This committee will meet on call of the Mess Officer and will report its actions to this Headquarters.

(3) Names of persons, appointed by their units to act as Mess Representative, will be posted in the messhall area.

Subj: Purchase of bottled beverages from local Vietnamese

Ref: (a) ADC ltr JAW:wtw over 1000 of 13Oct65

1. Purpose. To publish information concerning the purchase of bottled beverages from local Vietnamese.
2. Background. By reference (a) this organization was informed that complaints have been received that Marine purchasing agents who buy case lots of beverages from local Vietnamese are failing to return the bottles after the beverages are consumed. The local practice in quoting a price for bottled beverages is to set a price for the beverages only; the bottle is not included in the quoted price, and remains the property of the merchant or vendor. The common American practice of making a deposit on bottles, which is forfeited if the bottles are not returned, is not employed here.
3. Action. Unit commanders will:
 - a. Insure that all empty beverage bottles originally obtained from local Vietnamese merchants are collected and returned as soon as possible.
 - b. Insure that bottles containing beverages be collected and returned as the beverages are consumed.
 - c. Insure that all purchasing agents henceforth reach a clear understanding with local Vietnamese merchants as to the price of the beverage and the bottle (an outright sale of both items) or reach an agreement with the merchant regarding a deposit system similar to that which is commonly practiced in the United States.

Subj: Motor Vehicle Operator Safety Instruction

1. Purpose. To ensure that all motor vehicle operators are cautioned concerning the dangers and hazards inherent in driving during periods of reduced visibility.

2. Background. There is always a possibility that the enemy in his harrassment program might string taut wires so as to decapitate vehicle operators and passengers. It is also conceivable that communications and power lines could inadvertently be lowered to a height that could cause physical injury. A recent accident within the enclave caused the death of two persons when they drove into a taut horizontal cable erected above the ground level during the late afternoon hours when visibility had been reduced.

3. Action.

a. Unit commanders will ensure that the following is undertaken immediately.

(1) All motor transport personnel will be instructed on the necessity of exercising extreme care when operating motor vehicles in inclement weather, during the hours of darkness, and when clear visibility is otherwise impaired.
