The battalion continued to participate in Operation KENTUCKY between 1 and 27 May.

The Battalion's normal deployment was with Co's "A" and "D" at A-4, Co "B" at Yankee Station and Co "C" at C-2 Bridge. On 27 May, the Battalion moved into the Operation Lancaster II OA, OPCON to the 4th Marines.

Numerous platoon and squad size combat patrols, ambushes, OP's and security and screening activities were conducted both day and night during May. Several Co and Co (-) size operations were conducted and late in the month the Battalion was able to exploit enemy contacts with up to three companies reinforced each time with tanks from A-4.

On 15 May, Co "A" was chopped to 9th Marines and then to 1st Bn, 26th Marines to participate in an operation west of C-2.

Frequent contacts with the enemy characterized this reporting period. The most significant of these contacts began around noon on 22 May when Co "B" departed Yankee Station aboard tanks east along southern edge of the trace to exploit contact made by 3/3 earlier in the day. Co "B" moved down to the North-South road 2000 meters east of A-4. Co "A" moved to approximately YD 145709 and set up in an East-West posture. The CP group positioned itself at approximately YD 138707. Co "B" commenced the attack east at 1610H. They soon came under heavy a/w fire, RPG's and Chicom grenades from NVA in fortified bunkers at YD 145705. The lead elements were pinned down. Capt. R.E. HARRIS, the Company Commander, was killed. Co "A" began to move down to assist Co "B" and also received heavy fire. Co "A" and the CP group began to receive incoming 82mm mortars. Approximately 35 rds impacted in the Bn position. Early in the evening Co "B" still had 2 squads pinned down but Co "A" was closing to extract them. By 1930H, the contact had been broken and the Battalion elements moved back with their casualties to YD 138707. The Battalion consolidated a defensive position and set in for the night. All casualties were medevaced with the exception of a few KIA's. The Battalion sustained the following casualties and loss of equipment: Co "A" 2 KIA, 7 WIA (EVAC); Co "B" 12 KIA (6 bodies not recovered at this time), 19 WIA (EVAC), and 2 MIA; Co "D" 1 NBC (EVAC). Co "B" lost two PRC/25 radios, compromising the Battalion and Company frequencies, shackle sheets for unknown dates and one map with Regiment Thrust Points. Debrief of personnel in field revealed following details of the contact: Co "B" had 52 NVA KIA confirmed and destroyed one heavy machinegun. Co "D" had one NVA KIA (confirmed) and captured one Russian carbine. At 0800H on 23 May, Co "A" began to attack southeast in the vicinity of a stream bed at YD 153714. The area was prepped by arty and air. Almost immediately Co "A" began to receive sniper fire from the treeline along stream bed. More arty missions and air strikes were called on enemy positions. Groups of NVA began to break out of treeline and flee north toward the trace. Co "A" took them under fire with s/a, a/w, and tanks. Arty missions were called. Three arty batteries were fired simultaneously along with 60mm mortars from Co "A". NVA became confused and panicked, running into one impact area after another. Tanks fired canister and beehive rounds. Approximately 150 tried to run across the trace. 1/4 elements observed 2 82mm mortar positions. Tanks took mortars under fire and destroyed them. AO on station began calling air strikes on enemy in trace, killing them. Supporting

NARRATIVE SUMMARY

The Battalion continued to participate in Operation KENTUCKY throughout the month of April.

The Battalion was deployed with Co's "A" and "D" at A-4, Co "B" at Yankee Station and Co "C" at C-2 Bridge. During portions of the month, a platoon from Co "K" 3/3 was OPCON to the Battalion and reinforced Co "C" at C-2 Bridge.

Numerous platoon and squad size combat patrols, ambushes, OP's and security and screening activities were conducted in April. Two significant contacts with the enemy were made. On 24 April, when the lead elements of Co "D" crossed the trace 2000 meters west of A-4, they received small arms fire from an estimated 5-10 NVA. Co "D" returned fire and swept the area. The action resulted in 2 NVA KIA and 1 POW. Co "D" sustained 3 USMC WIA. On 25 April, while on a combat patrol west of A-4, a platoon from Co "A" discovered a bunker complex. A few minutes later the platoon came under heavy small arms, automatic weapons fire and began to suffer casualties. The NVA force was estimated at two companies. The patrol established a defensive perimeter and called for reinforcements. The Battalion "Bravo" Command Group, Co "D", a platoon from Co "B" and a platoon of tanks was committed to the site of the contact. All units soon became heavily engaged. Battalion elements swept through the area, and recovered all USMC dead and wounded. One NVA POW was captured, but soon died of his wounds. Four enemy individual weapons and one crew served weapon were captured. Quantities of NVA weapons and equipment were observed, but the tactical situation precluded their collection. Action resulted in 72 NVA KIA (confirmed) while the Battalion suffered 9 KIA and 17 WIA.

At 0930 on 27 April, LtCol E.A. Deptula was relieved of command of the Battalion by LtCol J.H. McLean.

The Battalion continued to emphasize fighting hole and Dyamarker Bunker construction commensurate with the tactical situation.

(2) First Aid. A one hour class was presented to each Marine on the basics of first aid/health and hygiene. Emphasis was placed on the prevention of heat casualties due to the extreme heat which the Battalion will be subjected to in the near future.

(3) Marksmanship/Squad Tactics. A two hour class and six hours of practical application was conducted to give each Marine as much supervised practice as possible in field firing of their TO weapon and working with combat formations and signals on the squad level. A continuing program is planned for this training.

(4) Code of Conduct. A one hour refresher class was held to explain what the code of conduct is and the importance of each Marine living up to its standards.

b. Company level training was conducted on subjects most needed to meet our present tactical requirements.

b. Transportation

(1) Organic. Only 9 M42A1 (Mighty Mites) were on hand during this period. These vehicles were utilized for administrative runs to Dong Ha, as well as local runs between A-4, Yankee Station and C-2 Bridge. The battalion presently has three M-37 (PC) trucks operationally ready.

(2) Support

(a) Vehicular. The 9th Motor Transport Battalion provided 2 trucks on a daily basis during this period for household runs. One truck was maintained at C-2 Bridge and the other was utilized at A-4. With 5 water trailers to fill daily, this transportation was inadequate. On 23 April, one M50A1 water tanker (1000 gallon) was provided by F163-B and driven by an operator from 9th Motor Transport Battalion. This has been an effective means to keep all water trailers filled, as well as maintain an emergency supply of 1000 gallons of water on hand at all times.

(b) Air-Helicopter. On 24 April, the vehicular transportation for resupply became so critical that helicopters were used for resupply. Helicopter transportation was utilized for resupply on an average of four lifts daily by OH-53 at the end of the month.

c. Engineer Support. Engineer support teams provided the battalion with demolition capabilities. One TD-18 tractor was deadlined approximately 50% of the time. A replacement TD-18 was received on 29 April, however on 30 April the newly assigned TD-18 was deadlined due to a burned out clutch. A TD-15 tractor has been requested but not received.

During the month 6 Lance Corporals were promoted to Corporal and 36 Privates First Class were promoted to Lance Corporal. The service records of the Privates were checked twice during the month for promotion to Private First Class. One Corporal was meritoriously promoted to Sergeant by the Commanding General, 3d Marine Division. One previously submitted recommendation for a hardship discharge was returned approved.

1. Education.

During the month of April there were 159 General Education Development Tests administered.

11. Intelligence.

a. Enemy.

(1) There was a significant increase in enemy activity in the Battalion's AOR for the reporting period. The enemy continued his attempt to use trails within the AOR as infiltration routes. Enemy artillery fires and ground action within the AOR increased over previous reporting periods.

Small enemy infiltration groups were continually sighted to the north during the first half of the month against which artillery fires and fixed wing were directed. Significant contacts were made starting on 24 April and continuing through the month. On 24 April, contact was made with an estimated 20 NVA in the Hill 88 vicinity. A POW, a member of the 27th Independent Regiment, reported his mission was to recon for an attack on Con Thien. Contact to our west on 26 April with two NVA Companies, resulting in 72 NVA/KIA, confirmed the presence of enemy units harboring in the AOR. The last two days of the month found enemy units attempting to blow the outer perimeter wire of the A-4 position and attempting ambushes on units operating close to the perimeter to the North.

(2) Artillery fires were minimal during most of the month, however, after 26 April, incoming was a daily occurrence ranging from 82mm mortars to 152mm guns. The enemy proved his capability for observed fires by shelling Company "D" on 24 April with 30 rounds when they crossed the forward slope of Hill 88 east of A-4.

b. Terrain.

(1) The enemy used favorable terrain features to the maximum during the reporting period. Enemy units apparently realized areas of limited observation to the north and northwest of the A-4 position and were able to complete some movements without observation. The sloping plateaus just forward of A-4 along the east-west road prevented any observation of that area and allowed them to move undetected in this area. Excellent observation of the plain area farther north has contributed significantly to our ability to call observed fires on enemy in the open.

c. Weather.

		5		Company "A" combat patrol returned to vicinity of YD 101688 where "A" platoon combat patrol discovered large enemy bunker complex on 19 April. S-2 believed area was a battalion CP that had housed approx. 400 men. The complex apparently had not been used for about four months. In this area, the following was found: 24 large bunkers 7'x4'x4' covered with 2-4 layers of logs and 10" of dirt. The decking was made of split bamboo. 2 AA/AW positions 50 meters apart 5'x3' with a platform 1 1/2' high in the center. There was a 6'x4'x4' bunker built into the wall. At YD 102667 they discovered 21 6'x4'x4' and 8 3'x3'x3' bunkers, 21 of these were connected by a trench 2'x4'. Trench line was covered in places. FO's platform in a tree about 10 feet off the ground with a good view of C-2, C-2B and A-4. A tunnel into the ground at about a 70° angle, approx. 30' deep and 3' in diameter. At the bottom was a room dug out to about 11'x8'x8'. This appeared to be a dud bomb crater that had been improved by the enemy. Near this tunnel, there were areas of sunken earth of which 13 were marked with grave markers. These areas were dug up and each hole contained the remains of one NVA KIA that was reduced to almost a skeleton. The graves were marked as follows:
				74 43 22 40 86 9Bn 99Bn 119Bn 99Bn 119Bn
				42 50 80 28 56 3 416 9Bn 129Bn 129Bn 129Bn 9Bn 119Bn 119Bn
				38 49 99Bn 129Bn
				At YD 100666 15 large bunkers 6'x4'x4' and 17 bunkers 3'x3'x3', 4 mortar pits 6'x3 1/2' with 2 ammo storage areas in each. These pits were littered with black fuze caps and fuze and primer cans. The highest point at this position also had an FO tower in a tree with a good view of C-2, C-2B and A-4.

1130		8		Co "A" platoon patrol found a bunker complex in a heavily wooded area at YD 096703. A reenforced squad was sent into the area to search and destroy the bunker complex. Upon entering the wooded area, the squad came under heavy fire and took several casualties. NVA force estimated at a platoon, later reinforced by two companies positioned in reinforced bunkers. Smitty Alpha squad set up a 360 defense. The squad was unable to move due to extremely heavy grazing fire from s/a and a/w. The squad also received incoming chi-com grenades. The remainder of the platoon swept into wooded area and received heavy s/a and a/w fire. At 1300H, a platoon of Co "D" command group was dispatched to reinforce the Alpha platoon. The Co "D" reaction unit swept through the area of contact and was pinned down by heavy s/a fire from both front and rear. At 1400H, the 1/4 elements in contact were further reinforced with a platoon from Co "B" and two tanks. All elements were heavily engaged by the enemy. Maintaining a heavy grazing fire from bunkers just above ground level and using heavy a/w and sniper fire, the enemy was able to pin down the Smitty units. At 1530H the Bravo Bn. Command Group, the remainder of Co "D" and two additional tigers were committed to the action. 1/4 elements swept the area and recovered all WIA'S and KIA'S. An LZ was established and all WIA'S AND KIA'S were evaced. AO ran gunships and fixed wing on area of contact

The Battalion continued to participate in Operation KENTUCKY throughout the month of March. During the first week in March, the Battalion defended C-2 Forward Operating Base, the C-2 Bridge and that portion of the MSR (Route #561) within the Battalion's AOR.

On 9 March, the Battalion moved north to the A-4 Strong Point Patrol Base and assumed the defense of that position and Yankee Station, 1000 meters to the south of A-4. While Company "C" was OPCON to the 9th Marines at A-2 from 1-22 March, Company "H", 2/1 was OPCON to 1/4 from 9-22 March and occupied Yankee Station.

On 19 March, the Battalion's Alfa Command Group and Company "B" left A-4 to participate in a two day search and destroy/anti-infiltration operation in the eastern portion of the AOR. Company "I", 3/3 came under OPCON of 1/4 for the duration of the Operation.

On 22 March, the Battalion's southern boundary was moved 2500 meters south and 1/4 assumed responsibility for the defense of C-2 Bridge. On the same day, Company "H", 2/1 was chopped to 2/1 and Company "C" returned to C-2 Bridge under OPCON of 1/4. On 24 March, 3d Platoon, Company "I", 3/1 came under OPCON of the Battalion. The Battalion's present disposition is Companies "A" and "D" at A-4, Company "B" at Yankee Station and Company "C", reinforced with 3d Platoon, Company "I", 3/1, at C-2 Bridge.

Numerous squad and platoon size combat patrols, ambushes, OP's and security and screening activities were conducted throughout the month. The Battalion continued to successfully utilize Killer Team Patrols during March. These teams accounted for 14 NVA/KIA (confirmed) with only one USMC WIA.

During the latter part of March, FO's assigned to 1/4 observed an increase in enemy sightings and troop movement to the north of A-4. Fire missions called by the FO's resulted in 13 NVA/KIA (confirmed).

At A-4, as at C-2, the Battalion emphasized fighting hole and Dymarkor Bunker construction commensurate with the tactical situation.

2. Operations.

02 March At 1030H, Co "D" Killer Team point moving east observed one NVA approx 20 meters away in fighting hole. Point killed NVA and Killer Team Leader directed an assault on enemy position. Meanwhile, FO called arty fires to seal off enemy escape routes, Killer Team assaulted through NVA position 10-30 meters to their front. Total of 10 NVA were in the area and all were killed. Sniper team accounted for two of the 10 who were attempting to flee. Large amount of medicines, medical equipment and medical records captured indicates that the 10 NVA were medical personnel. Killer Team withdrew to perimeter under cover of arty fires.

At 1410H, C-2 position received 9 rds estimated 100mm arty from 5800 mills. Rds impacted 200 meters northeast of perimeter beyond minefield. Fired counter arty fire of 30 rds 105mm on suspected enemy position. Reaction time was five minutes.

At 1658H, C-2 received two 82mm mortar rds and two more rds at 1710H and another rd 33 minutes later. All rds impacted inside the perimeter and were fired from a direction of 5100 mills. Returned counter mortar fire with reaction time of one minute. Negative casualties.

At 1805H, east tower at C-2 spotted 4 to 5 NVA in open at YD 083660. Fired 105mm arty mission of 20 rds on enemy position with excellent target coverage. Results unknown.

At 1820H, C-2 position received 2 rds 82mm mortar from 4400 mills. Rds impacted in perimeter. Returned counter mortar fire with reaction time of five minutes. Sustained one friendly WIA (minor). Injured man from Kilo Btry, 13th Marines.

04 March At 0840H, received 9th Mar msg 040840H, "1/4 and 2/1 be prepared to exchange AO by 10 Mar. Upon exchange Command Group, 2/1 chop "H" Co to 1/4."

Between 031800H and 041100H, Co "B" Killer Team, while setting in night ambush at YD 155664, heard NVA voices and sounds of chopping and digging several hundred meters to their north. Throughout the night of 3-4 March, sounds of talking, shouting and laughing were heard. Killer Team leader estimated approx 1 NVA company in the immediate vicinity. At 040900, while moving, NE to new ambush position, the Killer Team entered a bunker complex at YD 158663. At this point, the terrain was covered with extremely thick undergrowth and the bunkers covered the trail network. The bunkers were freshly dug and approx 5 feet deep with a hollowed out underground sleeping compartment. Each bunker appeared capable of accomodating approx 5 men. Overhead cover was provided by 4 layers of saplings and a layer of dirt. As the team continued to move SE, the number of bunkers increased and voices and movement could be heard to their front. The team commenced movement to the SW to enable AO on station to direct arty fire on bunker complex. At 041030H at YD 157660, another bunker complex was found. This appeared to be a recently constructed Battalion size CP area with a bathing point and numerous living bunkers. Several stand-up latrines were also observed. (It is of interest to note that Payops Propoganda leaflets were used as toilet paper.) The bunkers appeared to have been lived in the previous night and many fresh footprints were observed leading south. Killer Team was withdrawn and arty and air strikes were called to saturate the area.

At 1340H, C-2 received 2 rds 82mm mortar from 5400 mils. Rds impacted to southwest of perimenter, outside minefield. Returned fire on suspected enemy position with counter mortar mission of 15 rds 81mm. Results unknown.

06 March

At approx 1000H, Co "A" Killer Team in vicinity of YD 108645 observed patrol consisting of 6-8 well camouflaged NVA at YD 105642. NVA were observed moving to northeast then swinging west. Team was unable to call arty mission prior to NVA moving out of sight. At approx 1200H, team observed 1 NVA at YD 100643. Called arty mission and moved toward area to check results. Upon arrival at YD 102642, last man in team observed and killed one NVA moving toward them from the rear. The team received A/W and S/A fire from west, north and south from estimated two NVA platoons. Supplies were maintained and issued at A-4 to the Battalion elements located there and at Yankee Station. On 22 March, the Battalion also assumed the logistic responsibilities for the C-2 Bridge.

a. Supply.

(1) Class I. 15 days of MCI's were maintained at C-2. A 15 day stockage objective has been established at A-4, but at present, only about 5 days are maintained. When the Battalion left C-2 for A-4 on 9 March, the mess section returned to Dong Ha. The messhall was re-established at the C-2 Bridge on 29 March. The first "A" rations from this new position arrived at A-4 on 30 March. One hot meal will be served every other day at A-4 and Yankee Station and 2 meals daily at C-2 Bridge.

(2) Support. The 9th Motor Transport Battalion provided 3 trucks on a daily basis during this period for household runs, i.e. water and trash, etc. On several occasions, these trucks had to be utilized to resupply the A-4 position from Dong Ha.

c. Engineer Support. Engineer support teams provided the Battalion with demolition capabilities. One TD-18 tractor is at A-4 on a permanent basis; however, the TD-18 was operational for only one day during March due to maintenance problems. A replacement TD-18 has been requested.

8. Civil Affairs.

There were no civil affairs activities conducted during this reporting period.

9. Psychological Warfare.

All psychological warfare operations were conducted by higher echelon.

10. Personnel and Administration.

a. General. During the reporting period, the administrative section was located at Dong Ha. At the close of the reporting period, each rifle company was averaging 14 men below manning level, and 14 men in a non-effective status. The China Beach R&R facilities are still closed. Four additional R&R quotas were authorized for personnel who were responsible for the capture of NVA/VC POW's. Hot meals were served whenever the tactical situation was such that the serving of same would not interfere with commitments. The mail continued to be delivered to all elements of the Battalion on almost a daily basis. A representative of the Division Post Office was available at all forward elements to sell postal money orders to those who desired them. During the month, 10 Lance Corporals were promoted to Corporal and 26 Privates First Class were promoted to Lance Corporal. The service record books of the Privates were screened twice this month and those eligible were promoted either on the first or the sixteenth of the month. Two requests for hardship discharge were acted upon. One was approved and one was disapproved.

Arrangements and scheduling for 207 personnel for the General Education Development Test was initiated during the last of March.

The screening and selection of Marines for the United States Navy Preparatory School was conducted late in the month.

11. Intelligence.

a. Enemy.

(1) The enemy continued his attempt to use trails in the Battalion's

UNCLASSIFIED

AOR as infiltration routes from North Vietnam. The majority of contacts made were with small NVA units infiltrating to the south. On 2 March, a Killer Team from Company "D" killed a 10 man medical unit from the 48th Regiment, 320th NVA Division. This contact not only confirmed this unit's presence, but deprived the NVA of a large supply of badly needed medical supplies. Throughout the month, there were many sightings of small groups, both to the east and west of Route #561. Between 26 March and 29 March there were numerous sightings of NVA north of A-4. It is believed that these groups were infiltrating along a route that crosses the trace between A-4 and A-3.

(2) A significant decrease was noted in the amount of enemy supporting arms fire brought to bear upon C-2/C-2 Bridge from 1-8 March and upon A-4 from 9-31 March. This decrease in incoming was felt to be significant in that it indicates the possibility that the NVA may be low on ammunition or may have decided that A-4, because of its lack of supporting arms, presents little threat to their actions. However, on 19 March, A-4 received 26 rounds of heavy artillery (152mm) from an estimated seven different positions.

b. Terrain.

(1) Terrain in the operating area is generally open with low rolling hills. The eastern AOR consists of uncultivated rice paddies hedgerows, heavily vegetated thickets and destroyed hamlets along Route #561. The best concealment in the AOR exists in the eastern area.

(2) From the A-4 position, excellent observation is afforded in all directions, but primarily observation is best to the west and north. Some concealment is available, but air strikes and the concentration of artillery missions have stripped most of the vegetation from the terrain.

c. Weather.

(1) The temperature range has been from the high 60's to the high 80's. Visibility has been generally good with night and early morning haze lifting by late morning. Rainfall for March was 1.82 inches.

d. Enemy Equipment Found or Destroyed.

- 2 AK-47's
- 2 SKS's
- 1 FPS-43
- 5 bags of medical supplies and equipment
- 1 bag AK-47 ammo
- 1 demo bag with demo
- 1 recoilless rifle
- 4 bunkers

e. Weekly malaria prophylaxis was continued through the use of Chloroquine Primequine tablets.

f. Sanitation inspections were held weekly in accordance with Article P6000.4D in the Battalion area (Dong Ha and A-4). Sanitary facilities at the present are considered adequate.

g. Three Battalion Aid Stations are presently being maintained. A Forward Battalion Aid Station consisting of a Battalion Surgeon and seven Hospital Corpsmen located at A-4, a secondary Battalion Aid Station consisting of seven Hospital Corpsmen located at A-4 and a Rear Battalion Aid Station consisting of nine Hospital Corpsmen located at Dong Ha. All injuries and maladies encountered were treated by the line company corpsmen and if needed, sent to one of the Battalion Aid Stations for further treatment and evacuation. No serious delays were encountered in resupply or medevac during this period.

h. Catholic Mass was provided for the Battalion on a daily basis.

i. Catholic Mass was provided for 2/1 and 3/4 by the Battalion Chaplain while these battalions occupied C-2 and C-2 Bridge positions.

4. Fire Support.

a. During the first week of March, the Battalion's FO teams manned the observation towers at C-2 and C-2 Bridge. On 9 March, the FO teams completed the take over of the three observation posts at A-4. On 23 March, an FO team took over the observation tower at C-2 Bridge. Troops from the rifle companies continued to assist in standing the tower watch.

b. Radio. The radio section supplied the Battalion and attached/OPCON units with radio batteries and spare radio equipment as required.

c. Covered Circuit. The KY-8 Circuit performed satisfactorily. At the end of the month two KY-8's were operable. One KY-8 is in for maintenance. Down time was generally due to generator power failure.

d. Wire. Wire/telephone service continued to improve as new lines were installed and old lines were replaced.

e. Maintenance. The maintenance section concentrated on maintaining electrical power throughout A-4. Shortage of electric wiring has prevented the installation of electric service to all areas of A-4.

f. Radio Relay. The radio relay unit encountered some difficulties at various times during the month. Down time was generally caused by generator failure at one end of the shot or the other.

g. Critical Shortage. A shortage still exists in (AN/PRC-25) spare module replacements. The most critical module shortage is module (A-10).

h. Equipment Repaired. During the month of March, the following equipment was repaired locally:
