C. Training.

- 1. One hundred sixty Marines were processed through indoctrination training prior to their deployment to the field.
- 2. Division and higher level formal school training was as follows:
 - a. Division Leadership Schools 10
 - b. Basic Ammunition Tech

D. Close Combat.

The 2nd Battalion, 5th Marines continued participation in Operation Meade River through 6 December 1968. See part IV. Operation Taylor Common began 6 December, and on 13 December under the operational control of the 3rd Marines the Battalion was helolifted to Hill 21h vicinity of ZC 19h5 to establish a Fire Support Base.

E. Fire Support.

l. Two firing batteries were in direct support of the Battalien, Battery A lst Battalien, 12th Merines and a provisional battery of 155's from the 12th Marines from 13 December to 31 December 1968.

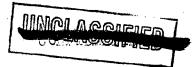

a. Significant Fire Support Events. Ammunition resupply in the early phase of Taylor Common was considered inadequate to support a Fire Support Base. Harassing and interdiction fires could not be fired because of low ammunition stocks on position. The only missions that could be fired were known enemy targets and contact missions. Additionally night defensive fires could not be registered for isolated companies. Insufficient helicopters were available to establish and resupply the Fire Support Base. Three other buttalions were also in the field supported by the same helicopters. Later in the month, as the seriousness of the problem became apparent, additional helicopters were provided. At the end of the month stocks of ammunition had reached acceptable, if not ideal levels.

F. Air Support.

- 1. Tactical Air Support. A total of 6 tactical air support missions were flown in support of the Battalion consisting of 12 sorties.
- 2. Assault Helicopter Operations. The Battalion executed one helicopter assault consisting of 8 sorties.
- 3. Aerial Observation and Visual Reconnaissance. The Battalion utilized 15 aerial observation missions consisting of 15 sorties.
- h. Medical Evacuations. The Battalion requested and received 2h missions consisting of 12 emergency, 15 priority and 19 routine medical evacuation. The elapsed time for these medical evacuations has become quite long. For example, emergencies during December averaged 1 hour and 15 minutes, priorities 4 hours and 15 minutes and routines 9 hours and 10 minutes. This was partly alleviated by the positioning of the MedEvac package at An Hoa.

G. Logistics.

- 1. During the early part of December the Battalion relocated south and a jacent to the An Hoa Combat Base.
- 2. Construction of the new camp was accomplished by detachments of the 1st, 7th and 9th Engineer Battalions and through self help. 59 tent decks and two new hard backs were built as well as a 600 bunker, an ammunition bunker and four culvert bunkers for the perimeter. Two hard backs and thirteen SEA huts were salvaged from the old camp and set up at the new location.

Temporary messing facilities were established until a new mess hall can be constructed.

- 3. A detachment from 1st Engineer Sattalion installed a field shower unit.
- 4. All resupply requests for Operation Taylor Common were coordinated through the LSA at An Hoa.
- 5. All resupply in the field was coordinated by Helicoptor Support Teams attached to each company and the Battalion Command Group.
- 6. Engineer Support consisted of a platoon with the command group and a team with each company. In addition to their normal duties they provided advise and assistance in establishing the Fire Support Base.

a. Supply.

- l. During this reporting period, two requisitions for a quantity of three M60 Machine Gune each were filled bringing this Battalion up to T/E level for that item.
- 2. Five complete 81mm Mortars were received during the month bringing the command up to T/S level for that weapon.
- 3. Upon moving into the canopy for the current operation, the Battalian received and issued 850 pairs of the new light-weight tropical gloves.
- 4. Other critical items received during the month include 650 rainsuits, 125 machettes, 40 caliber .45 pistols and one M107 water trailer.

b. Motor Fransport.

12. Administration and Logistics.

a. Supply.

(1) Helicopter Support Teams attached to each company and the Battalion Command Group coordinated all resupply for Operation HENDERSON HILL. All resupply was made by helicopter from the LSA at An Hoa.

b. Treatment of Casualties and Hospitalization.

(1) There were no significant problems encountered during the Operation.

c. Transportation.

(1) Transportation of personnel and equipment to and from the AO was accomplished exclusively by helicopter.

d. Communications.

(1) Communications were outstanding throughout the Operation.

13. Commander's Analysis.

The Battalion conducted operations in two areas. The first, the Arizona Area, found the local population very poor, lacking in food, and in extremely bad health. The second, near and on Go Moi Island, resulted in the capture of 10 prisoners and large rice caches. Again, as with Operation SUSSEX BAY monsoon rains terminated sweep operations on Go Moi Island. Discovery and recovery of rice caches deprived the enemy of a much needed food supply. Enemy prisoners provided substantial intelligence information concerning the 36th NVA Regiment. Both areas of Operation sadly reflected the lack of GVN presence.

The lack of operations on Go Hoi Island since September has resulted in an extensive VC oriented population buildup in that area, particularly West of the railroad berm. If not in fact now, the area will soon be developed to provide an extensive staging area and safe haven for VC/NVA forces operating within the DaNang TAOR. The rapid re-vegetation of the area will complicate further friendly operations on the island and is presently aiding the illegal civilian population buildup.

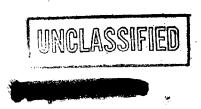

14. Recommendations.

- a. That Government of VietHam forces establish a base camp in the Arizona area to provide physical government presence in that area or, at least that they be tasked to conduct periodic sweep operations in the area for the same purpose.
- b. That in any future operations conducted by U. S. Forces, extensive use be made of Government of Vietham Armed Propaganda Teams, Provincial Reconnaissance Units and Psychological broadcast teams to assist in countering Viet Cong propaganda and in identifying and rooting out the Viet Cong Infrastructure.
- c. That prompt action be taken to relocate the civilian population buildup in Government of VietNam prohibited Go Moi Island area.

d. That prompt and aggressive action be taken to again defoliate Go Woi Island.

Supporting Arms

a. Fire Support.

- (1) Batteries from the 1st, 2nd and 4th Battalion 11th Marines provided direct support for the Operation.
- (2) All fire missions within the Battalion SOA were under the positive control of a forward observer; danger close missions were common and were executed with a high degree of proficiency. Target coverage was considered excellent.

b. Air Support.

- (1) Air Support was considered outstanding throughout the operation.
- (2) Rotary wing was utilized for medical evacuations, passenger and supply lifts and visual reconnaissance missions. There was one Battalion size helicopter assault.

7. Intelligence.

- a. Initial Intelligence for Operation MEADE RIVER indicated that elements of the X-16 Local Force Company, the Q-82 Local Force Company and the R-20 Main Force Battalion were within the Operations area. Also, it was known that the area contained a large number of VCI who provided tactical, logistical, and intelligence support for transient units; consequently, there existed a strong possibility of unknown units of up to battalion size harboring the area. During the first phase of the operation, the Battalion expedited the removal of a large number of indigenous personnel from the hamlets in close promimity to its positions for screening by higher headquarters. The Battalion also captured one detained who claimed that his unit was the R-20 MF Battalion which had been located shortly before in the operations area and which was trying to exfiltrate in small groups. A number of documents were also found on enemy the Battalion had killed.
- b. The second phase of the operation yielded no specific intelligence. During the third phase of the operation, the Battalion encountered minor resistance and found little information of intelligence value. As the fourth phase was initiated, it became evident that an unknown unit was hardoring in the Dodge City Area. As the Battalion blocked along the Eastern edge of this area, payops units were used extensively in Chieu Hoi appeals. On 3 Movember, one Hoi Chanh was taken claiming that he was from the 3rd Bn, 36th Regiment, 308th Division and that his unit was in the path of adjacent sweeping units. Also during this phase of the Operation, the Battalion found a minor amount of assorted enemy equipment and documents. All enemy documents, equipment and weapons were forwarded to 1st Marines Forward Command Post. Close liaison was maintained to expedite the flow of intelligence information acquired.

- (5) Engineering support consisted of a team attached to each company and four attached to the Battalian Command Group. In addition to their normal duties, they were tasked with sweeping a section of Route #4 during the early stages of the Operation.
 - b. Treatment of Casualties and Hospitalization.
 - (1) There were no significant problems encountered.

c. Communications.

(1) Communications were excellent throughout the operation.

13. Commander's Analysis.

Initially assigned a sector of the Regimental Cordon, the Battalion took part in a successful helolist which trapped the enemy within the cordon. With this type of operation it is essential that the search and sweep be conducted in detail and with the patience required to thoroughly cover the area. Unique and sustained alertness especially during the hours of darkness is required and resulted in containment of the enemy within the cordon and destruction of forces attempting to escape and capture of documents and personnel of substantial intelligence value. Close coordination of supporting arms with other friendly units in close proximity compounded operations. This close proximity of friendly/enemy units as the cordon was tightened unduly restricted the use of heavy ordnance; resulting in casualties from enemy fire which might otherwise have been avoided. Visits by the regimental commander and his staff officers to the field materially facilitated coordination between adjacent commands and accomplishment of assigned tasks on a timely basis.

14. Recommendations.

- a. That areas of known or suspected enemy concentrations be prepared with heavy ordnance prior to closing the cordon.
- b. That a more accurate survey of civilians within the cordon area be accomplished prior to commencement of the operation to determine more realistic areas of preparatory fire.
