6. No changes were effected in staff or command billets in the Battalion.
7. During this reporting period there were no intelligence incidents to be reported.

8. Logistics

a. During the period covered, 48 separate pieces of correspondence were processed by this office. Of these, 33 were general correspondence, 7 were recurring reports, and 8 special reports. Of special interest were:

(1) Two speedletters to CMC informing that Headquarters of modifications made to the drilling machine rotary, and the bin storage aggregate.

(2) A report to CG, III MAF listing critical repair parts and T/E deficiencies required to upgrade this Battalion's equipment readiness.

b. Supply. Battalion Supply, during this period, recomputed the Average Monthly Recurring Demand (AMRD) for all items of supply. This computation generated the submission of some 2400 requisitions, to fill stock deficiencies. Figures are becoming more realistic regarding requisitioning objectives as more time is spent under the tactical operations we are presently experiencing.

c. Messing. The mess staff served approximately 71,000 meals for the period, consisting of A and B rations.

d. Medical. The Battalion Aid Station treated a total of 2896 patients, of which 1364 were indigenous personnel treated in conjunction with the Battalion Civil Affairs activities.

e. Motor Transport. A total of 128,383 miles were logged on the Battalion's motor transport equipment.

f. Maintenance. The Battalion Maintenance Platoon processed 161 pieces of motor transport, and 110 pieces of engineer equipment.

g. Utilities. The Battalion utilities section continued its normal encampment operations of providing water, electricity, and extension of service to new structures being built in the camp site.

9. Training

a. During this reporting period the Battalion has sent 25 men to each of five, three day Land Mine Warfare schools held by the 3rd Engineer Battalion
