PART II

NARRATIVE SUMMARY

On 19 April 1968 two (2) 155mm Self-Propelled howitzers were transported by sea to Battery L at Phu Bai to increase the T/E assets of that battery. Subsequent to the arrival of the above mentioned howitzers two 155mm towed howitzers from the Second Provisional 155mm Howitzer Battery displaced from Battery L at Phu Bai to Battery M's position at AT 921717 and assumed the name of Battery M-X.

On 21 April 1968 Battery M-X displaced and occupied a position at grid AT 990717 relieving two Battery M 155mm Self Propelled Howitzers which returned to their parent unit at grid AT 921717. This move was initiated primarily due to the advantage of more firm ground in the new towed position which better supported the emplacement and employment of these weapons than the sandy area in which they were previously located.

On 23 April 1968 2nd Battalion, 13th Marines relieved 4th Battalion, 11th Marines of responsibility for manning OP TIGER. On the same date 4th Battalion, 11th Marines initiated providing one enlisted FO, one BC scope, and one radio in support of the 1st ALVT Company who man OP HAWK.

On 29 April 1968 Battery K assumed modified General Support/Reinforcing 3rd Battalion, 11th Marines (priority of fires to 3/11 except during rocket attacks) in support of Operation BALLARD VALLEY. Battery K performed the mission from its primary battery position at grid AT 879579.
