3. Casualties Inflicted on the Enemy. 1 KIA and 32 WIA.

4. Casualties Sustained. 2 WIA

5. Logistics. During the month, the battalion continued air operations and resupply. A split logistics section is still in operation. The forward section is still handling the air resupply with the rear section providing class II and administrative support. A total 51,539 rounds of 105mm, 107mm, and 155mm ammunition were moved this month.

6. Civil Action. The Civic Action program has been greatly improved. The Medcap programs and assistance programs to Thie Trang and Vinh Dai hamlets were active during November.

7. Personnel. The battalion was at 95% T/O strength at the end of the reporting period. Shortages exist in the MOS's 0122, 0239, 0844, 0848, 0849, 2111, 3041, 3052, 3516, 3531, and 3560. Fifty Marines participated in the R&R program during November.

8. Intelligence. Enemy initiated activity during the month of November followed two different patterns. The first of the month revealed a sharp drop in enemy activity, including a complete absence of incoming artillery fire for the week of 3 thru 9 November, and no attempts of interdiction of the Cua Viet River. Following this week of low activity enemy incidents showed a slight increase although the tempo was still at a reduced level.

The increase was noted by light to moderate attacks by fire along the DMZ, heavy anti-aircraft fire in the eastern and central DMZ, ambushes and mining of the Cua Viet River resulting in the sinking of a river patrol craft on 11 November. Mining incidents along Rt. 9 have shown a marked increase over the past month as the enemy attempts to interdict these important LOC's.

6 Dec 1968

Current order of battle shows that the enemy has withdrawn his forces north of the Ben Hai River accounting for the drop in large enemy contact by friendly forces. While the enemy has withdrawn the closeness of staging areas in the northern DMZ and eastern Laos still poses a threat to allied military bases and urban centers. The enemy can be expected to continue a stepped up program of developing his infrastructure to assure himself a continued existence in South Vietnam.

Enemy violations of the DMZ were noted during the period as aerial reconnaissance reported sighting of bunker complexes, some of which showed signs of recent activity, foxholes, trenchlines, supplies and small groups of enemy troops. In addition there were sighting of suspected enemy vehicles in and north of the eastern DMZ. An aerial observer directed tactical air strikes on a launch sight inside the DMZ shortly after elements of the 3d Marines experienced 122mm rocket fire while making an assault on LZ Comet.

At the present time the enemy direction may be controlled by a higher headquarters but any large scaled offensive does not seem probable at the present time.

9. Communications. In November, the Communications Platoon supported the Battalion's operations at Dong Ha, Vandegrift Combat Base and at LZ Dick. At Vandegrift Combat Base, the wire section wired in a new FDC bunker and installed an electrical wire system for the headquarters position. The radio section displaced by echelon from Vandegrift Combat Base to LZ Dick. A new log periodic antenna from Regiment was erected. The message center updated its operation procedures and drafted a new formal SOP.

10. Training. During the month of November, training was primarily oriented toward section and MOS classes in view of heavy field commitment of all batteries. Normal troop indoctrination classes and GMS training were carried out whenever possible. Four battalion personnel attended out-of-country formal schools consisting of Noncommissioned Officer School, Embarkation School and Basic Infantry Weapons Repair School. In addition four battalion personnel attended in-country formal schools consisting of Forward Observer School, Fire Directional Center School, Basic Supply School, and Teletype School.
