PART II

NARRATIVE SUMMARY

During the month of June, the 4th Battalion was considerably less active than in the previous month. Observed missions were few in number, reflecting both decreased enemy activity in the 3d Marine Division AO, and the westward movement of infantry elements of the 3d Marine Division. Most significant in the month of June was an accentuated emphasis on the use of Fire-cracker munitions, both on observed targets and on suspected/acquired targets. Results have been relatively high kill rates on relatively small groups of troops.

The 1st Platoon of Battery "M" remained at Die Marker site C-1 (YD 209673) during the month of June. K/4/13 (OPCON to 2/12) remained at Die Marker site C-2 (YD 1364). B/1/13 moved from DONG HA to Die Marker site C-2 on 4 June. Battery "L" remained OPCON to Task Force Hotel in a general support/reinforcing role. Area of operations remained KHE SANH, with the battery shuttling between KHE SANH and LZ HAWK as necessitated by fire support requirements.

Three persons were observed approaching perimeter wire at 2330 on 8 June. After continued observation these individuals were taken under fire with an 61mm mortar by 2/12, with negative results. No damages or casualties were sustained from the incident, and no casualties were inflicted.

6. COMMAND RELATIONSa. 4th Battalion(-) (Rein), 12th Marines
1-30 June: OPCON & ADCON to 12th Marines7. EQUIPMENT

Major items of T/E equipment received during June were 31 M151 $\frac{1}{2}$ ton trucks. 29 of these vehicles were initial issue, and with the dropping from the inventory of 2 older vehicles, 4/12 was put at T/E for this vehicle.

During June, 4/12 had continued use of two M109 155mm howitzers that were made available by the U.S. Army. These temporarily loaned weapons made possible a greater degree of flexibility in the maintenance program and a higher level of operational readiness in the M109 howitzers than would have otherwise been the case.

8. LOGISTICS

With the exception of a shortage of PD fuzes early in the month, there were no ammunition resupply problems during the month of June.

Repair parts for the M109 were increasingly available during June, with a consequently high level of maintenance status. Motor transport maintenance was similarly satisfactory.

The main water supply point continued to be that of the 12th Marines in DONG HA, but 2/12 water point was also available for emergency resupply.
