5. Supporting Forces

a. Artillery

(1) H&I's were used extensively during the operation, both indirect and direct fire weapons. Direct fire weapons used for H&I fires were: 106mm recoilless rifles, 90mm tank guns, 40mm M-42 and .50 cal. quad mounts.

(2) Due to the nature of the battalion's operation and lack of targets more extensive use of artillery was not practical.

b. Air

(1) The battalion was lifted by helo from the Canyon Area of Operation to the DaNang Airfield on 9 April 1967. The lift commenced at approximately 1100H and the entire battalion was extracted by approximately 1500H. Marine C-130's were standing by at DaNang for immediate loading and further transportation to Phu Bai.

(2) At 1500H 11 April 1967 Company F was helo lifted from the base camp area to hill 51 (Vic 549281). The lift was scheduled to commence at 0700H however, the 2d Bn, 9th Mar was being lifted at the same time and air was over committed.

(3) At 1630H 21 April 1967 approximately 80 personnel of Company F were lifted from hill 51 (Vic 549281) to the base camp area with no problems being encountered.

(4) The battalion requested no further air support other than MedEvacs, recon flights and normal resupply. MedEvacs were requested over the TACP local net and reaction time was short considering the distance involved. Recon flights were provided on a daily basis by 4th Marines.

6. Intelligence

a. Enemy situation at beginning of Operation

(1) The enemy has recently conducted company sized attacks against friendly units that were either small in size or located in isolated areas. Other units had received enemy mortar attacks and frequent probing of perimeters. Patrols occassionally received sniping fire.

b. Summary of enemy personnel and equipment losses.

(1) EN KIA (prob) 2

(2) Weapons Captured 1

c. Weather and Terrain

(1) Frequent thunderstorms occurred during the period which restricted the use of helicopters due to reduced visibility. However, these storms were usually of short duration and normal operations were not interrupted.

(2) The operating area was predominately the low hills, north of the CO BI-THON TON Valley and the steeper ridges southwest of the valley. On the ridges and slopes vegetation was extremely dense with the initial growth being 12 to 18 feet high.

7. Mission. To reinforce the 4th Marine Regiment and to conduct operations as directed.

8. Concept of Operations. As assigned by 4th Marines

9. Execution. The battalion was participating in Operation Canyon on 9 Apr 67 when a message was received from the Commanding Officer, 1st Marines at approximately 0930H, to make immediate preparations for a helo lift to DaNang Airfield for further movement north. A helo lift was commenced at approximately 1100H and completed at approximately 1500H. The battalion was immediately lifted to Phu Bai by C-130 Aircraft and then moved by truck convoy to the Operation BigHorn operating area.

Company G was Chopped OPCON to the 3d Bn, 26th Marines at Phu Bai, rejoining the battalion at approximately 1100H on 21 Apr 67.

The battalion was assigned the responsibility of perimeter defense for the 4th Marines C.P. and LSA area. This required one rifle company, Company H, and a portion of H&S Company. A portion of the perimeter was also manned by Headquarters Company, 4th Marines, and the 2d Bn, 12th Marines.

Company F was assigned the mission of defending hill 51, YD 549281 and Company E was chopped OPCON to the 2d Bn, 9th Marines for a Search and Destroy Operation. Company E suffered 1 KIA and 2 WIA while OPCON to 2d Bn, 9th Mar.

At 110915H Company H relieved Company E, 2d Bn, 9th Mar and H&S Company relieved H&S Co, 2d Bn, 9th Mar on perimeter defence.

At 111535H Company F relieved Company G, 2d Bn, 9th Mar on Hill 51, YD 549281.

At 121300H Company E returned OPCON to this organization.

At 130610H Company E occupied a blocking position at YD 523287 to assist the 2d Bn, 9th Mar conducting a search and destroy operation. One platoon of Company F occupied a blocking position in the vicinity of YD 560280 to assist in the same operation.

At 141110H at YD 523288 Company E spotted 2 VC at YD 524273. Tanks in direct support of Company E fired 3 rounds of HE which resulted in 2 VC KIA (Prob).

At 141130H at YD 552293 Company F patrol from the blocking position tripped a surprise firing device believed to be a 105mm round resulting in 3 USMC WIA, one of which later died of wounds.

At 151930H at YD 562284 Company F sighted 2 VC wearing dark clothing at YD 550270 running west. Engaged with 9 rounds HE and 5 rounds illumination from 82mm Mortars. Good target coverage and observation continued with xenon night light with no positive results.

At 161210H at YD 511324 Company F 3d Platoon was conducting a recon patrol northwest of the perimeter when they received sniper fire from the vicinity of YD 507323. Fire was returned with an M-42, 40mm. A green star cluster appeared in response. The platoon immediately ceased fire and observed friendly troops approximately 500 meters to their front.

At 163000H at YD 556287 Company F 1st Platoon located three booby traps. One booby trap was tripped causing one USMC WIA, not evaced. The other two were blown in place.

At 161215H at YD 511324 a member of Company F received an injury to his leg from a punji stake. He was treated at BAS and returned to duty.

At 182320H in the vicinity of YD 557297 a Company F platoon sized ambush received 4 to 5 rounds of small arms fire and observed one VC. The patrol returned 40-50 rounds of small arms fire. The area was searched with negative results.

At 191455H at YD 555283 Company F Platoon sighted 5 personnel moving south at YD 555272, dressed in black, wearing white vietnamese hats and carrying an unknown object. An artillery fire mission was called and all movement in the area ceased.

At 200400H the 2d Bn, 26th Marines (-) (Rein), consisting of Company E, two platoons and a command group of Company F and the Battalion Command Group commenced a search and destroy operation in the vicinity of YD 4825 and YD 4925.

At 201720H at YD 488249 Company E found a 500 lb bomb dud, 4 bunkers, two ChiCom grenades and a claymore mine. All were destroyed with C-4.

At 210810H Company E spotted 4 VC on a trail at YD 493253. Approximately 20 rounds of small arms were received. Three rounds 60mm Mortar, 8 rounds M-79 and 50 rounds of small arms were returned. The VC broke contact, the area was searched with negative results.

At approximately 211700H the Command Group returned to the battalion area and the search and destroy operation was terminated.

At 212400H Operation BigHorn was terminated.

10. Results

- (1) Casualties: 4 WIA
- 1 DOW

- (2) Equipment/Material: None

b. Enemy losses

- (1) Casualties: 2 KIA (Prob)

c. All areas in which artillery missions were called were not searched due to the nature of the operation. No CAS missions were called.

d. No material or foodstuffs of U.S. origin were recovered.

11. Administrative Matters. An administrative plan for the movement of this battalion from DaNang into Operation BigHorn was non-existent. No initial warning was received of the pending movement from DaNang to BigHorn and as a result troops were inadequately prepared.

a. Supply

(1) Resupply of classes I, II, IV and V was accomplished through the 4th Marines Regimental S-4 and the local LSA. Some class II items such as batteries were obtained initially from this source. The battalion organic supply account was gradually brought to Phu Bai and Class II supplies were later drawn from that source.

(2) Resupply during Operation BigHorn has been by helicopter and by armored column. Helicopter resupply was coordinated through the LSA to the Regimental S-4 and the Regimental Air Officer.

(3) Combat loads for assault troops has consistently been: four M-16, basic allowance of ammunition and two canteen of water, additionally troops carry a light marching pack with entrenching tool and wear the body armor.

b. Maintenance

(1) Approximately twelve days after arrival of the battalion the motor transport and ordnance sections were able to displace to the forward Command Post. Until this time a motor transport repair capability was non-existent except on a limited basis from other units. Ordnance repair was accomplished by shipping damaged weapons back to Phu Bai by truck convoy and submitting these weapons to FLSG-A.

c. Treatment of casualties and evacuation and Hospitalization

(1) Casualties were treated in the field by corpsmen and evacuated to Phu Bai by helicopter if required. A Battalion Aid Station with a limited capability was established within the Command Post.

d. Transportation

(1) Transportation of troops and equipment in tactical and administrative moves was accomplished by tactical truck convoy or helicopter as requested through the 4th Marines Regimental S-4. Difficulty was met in acquiring sufficient truckage to move needed supplies and equipment from Phu Bai to Big Horn.

e. Communications

(1) Normal communications with the PRC-25 were employed. No problems were encountered.

2. Medical evaluation

(1) No medical problems were encountered.

3. Commanders Analysis. The area beyond (south) of the CO BI-THON TON would be a good area to position a battalion which could work at will throughout the ridges and valleys which typify the area and which are routes for VC units. An additional battalion could work the valley proper and keep the VC off balance throughout the entire area.

In the field of PsyOps, a Chieu Hoi reception point has been established vicinity ID 546324 with taped music and voice programs. This is used in conjunction with pamphlets dropped throughout the area.

1 h. Recommendations. That a rifle battalion be based in the area south of the CO BI-THON TON Valley and work Company and Platoon sized patrols and ambushes throughout the area, changing base camp locations every 48 hours.

DECLASSIFIEDPART II
NARRATIVE SUMMARY

The month of May proved to be a very active period for the 2nd Bn, 26th Marines. The first few days was spent on the final phase of Operation SHAWNEE. On 5 May 1967 2d Bn, 26th Marines was returned to the 4th Marines CP area to resume perimeter security and active patrolling.

On 8 May 1967 Co F/2/26 assumed mission of screening force for sweep being conducted by 2d Bn, 9th Marines and 2d Bn, 4th Marines in the PHONG DIEN area. They were later joined by Co G and conducted a coordinated sweep of the PHONG DIEN SONG. Results of Operation SHAWNEE: Friendly - KIA 1; DOW 3; WIA 26. Enemy - KIA (C) 3; KIA (P) 5; WIA(C) 1; POW 1; Detainees 15.

On 15 May 1967 2d Bn, 26th Marines departed 4th Marines CP for 9th Marines operating area and became OPCON 9th Marines, leaving 2d Plt, H Co OPCON 4th Marines. 2d Bn, 26th Marines moved by motor march to DONG HA, arriving late in the afternoon. Supported by tanks and entos they were moved to north of CAM LO and joined Operation Prairie IV which was already in progress. The night of 15 May passed without incident.

At about 161300H June 1967, the 2d Bn, 26th Marines was heavily engaged at close range with the NVA. On 17 June 1967 the 2d Bn, 26th Marines was heavily engaged. LtCol FIGARD, Bn CO was medevaced as a result of an NVA mortar attack on the Bn CP. Also at the time the Air Liaison Officer, Artillery Liaison Officer, S-3 Operations Officer, and HQ Commandant was medevac as the result of the same mortar attack. The Bn XO assumed command. Late that afternoon LtCol MASTERPOOL assumed command of 2nd Bn, 26th Marines. The Battalion continued mission until 170001H when Operation Prairie IV ended and Operation HICKORY began. On 232400H the Battalion - chopped OPCON 9th Marines and became OPCON 3d Marines. The morning of 26

May 1967 a recon flight with the Battalion's CO, and XO along with the CO's of H/2/26 and K/3/4 aboard the helicopter, was shot down by NVA ground fire. All personnel aboard was rescued by chase helo and LtCol MASTERPOOL was medevaced to DONG HA. Maj LANDERS assumed command of the Battalion. On 27 May 1967 LtCol CHAPLIN assumed Command of 2d Bn, 26th Marines. On the 16th until the 28th of May the Battalion was in almost constant contact with the NVA. Being subjected to heavy SA, Mortar, Rocket, and Artillery fire. The problem of coordination of supporting arms became often critical. During air operations artillery was restricted in their firing missions when in fact there was no air operation in the vicinity. Often during an arty fire mission air would come into area and cause a cease fire when air was not requested. This condition continued until the end of May. At 282400H operation Hickory was concluded and operation Prairie IV resumed. On 312100 operation Prairie IV concluded and operation Cimmeron began. Results of action from 16 to 31 May: Friendly - KIA 33; DOW 2; WIA 324. Enemy - KIA (C) 219; KIA (P) 220; Detainees 4.

a. Supply activity during the month of May centered around resupply of units in field combat operations and in replenishment of damaged or lost equipment subsequent to the operation. From the 1st of May to the 15th of May this battalion was on operation Shawnee. During this operation we had our organic supply located in Phu Bai. We were given excellent logistical support by the 4th Marines S-4 and most classes of supply were in abundance. From 15 May to 31 May this battalion participated in Operation Prairie IV, Hickory. The operations were conducted in the area of Con Thien. Our organic supply remained in Phu Bai and due to lack of transportation could not give the battalion any logistical support. We had a very small rear located at Dong Ha and all classes of supply used by our battalion had to be requested from FLSG "A" located at Dong Ha.

b. Maintenance within the battalion was fair. At the end of May a total of five vehicles were on deadline, one M-422A1 was on 3d echelon deadline, three 274A-2 were on 3d echelon deadline and one M-274 was on second echelon deadline. Receipt of spare parts continued to be spasmodic. Most weapons and communications equipment were returned to FLSG "A" for repair. Support for repair of critical items that should have been returned to this unit for use on the above mentioned operations was almost nonexistent.

c. Food Service: A battalion mess was established at the Shawnee area the entire month. A-rations were delivered daily by truck convoy from Phu Bai. From 15 May to 31 May this battalion ate only C-rations with supplemental juice and fruit acquired from the breakout stores at Dong Ha. While this battalion was in the field our mess fed 2d Battalion 4th Marines and other supporting units located in the Shawnee area. It was found while in the Shawnee area there was a lack of ice. The ice acquired had to be brought from Phu Bai and at the end of this long trip most of this ice had melted.

d. Transportation and Roads: Organic supplies and equipment were transported from Phu Bai to Shawnee by truck convoy. A convoy operated daily from Phu Bai to Shawnee area. Tactical movement of troops was by truck convoy and by helicopters. All roads in the area were controlled and maintained by the 4th Marines. One household truck was received daily for water resupply and trash collection. On 15 May this battalion except for two battalion rears were moved by truck convoy to Dong Ha and from there on into the Con Thien operating area.

e. Water in the 4th Marines area was a constant problem. The water capacity of the local water point was insufficient to meet the needs of this unit in several instances. On various occasions two to three hours were required to fill one water trailer M-107. Availability of shower water was generally not good. The battalion received constant assistance from the 4th Marines S-4 concerning this problem and the situation improved gradually. While operating in the Con Thien area this battalion had to be resupplied with water, the only problem in this area was the availability of water cans.

Enclosure (1)

f. Motor transport within the battalion was improved by the establishment of all battalion vehicles into a central battalion motor pool. Although, during the second half of the month some of our vehicles were located at Dong Ha; away from our organic maintenance. Also during this month, we were hurt by the transfer of a number of our experienced mechanics and our Motor Transport Chief having to go on emergency leave.

g. Embarkation within the battalion mainly concerned the displacement of equipment and personnel from Shawnee to Dong Ha and the Con Thien operating area. This battalion was moved by a forty-five truck convoy to Dong Ha and the Con Thien operating area.

h. Hospitalization and evacuation: Casualties from field operations were detained at Regimental Aid or in the case of the Con Thien operating area "D" Med, from which they were cleared and sent to other medical facilities, located in or out of country. Some evacuees were treated at the Battalion Aid Station and returned to duty. Evacuation was accomplished by helicopter or truck convoy.

INTELLIGENCE

1. Summary of Enemy Situation at Beginning of Period

a. Co Bi Thanh Tan Area

(1) Friendly units continued search and destroy operations against local VC forces and elements of the 800th, 802d, 804th, 806th, and 814th MF Battalions. The enemy forces appeared to be avoiding contact, and were probably in a state of re-constituting their units as a result of receiving heavy casualties the previous month.

b. Cam Lo - Con Thien Area

(1) At the beginning of the operation, an enemy unit estimated to be of battalion size, was maintaining contact with friendly units. Initially the enemy would attack with mortars to halt the advance of a friendly unit, then would open contact with a heavy volume of small arms fire, including numerous machine guns.

(2) As friendly units advanced through the objective area, the enemy began withdrawing towards the DMZ. The enemy continued to employ mortars extensively, and frequently fired rockets and artillery, in an attempt to delay the friendly units. While the enemy never attempted to counterattack or to hold any definite position he was found to be well organized and well equipped. On occasions when contact was made, the enemy conducted a well coordinated plan of defense and would not break contact until friendly artillery was called.

2. Summary of Enemy Activity During the Period

a. Co Bi Thanh Tan Area

(1) The enemy forces continued to avoid any major contact with friendly units. The enemy was very aggressive in initiating contact by fire but would not attempt to engage friendly units. Enemy snipers were frequently encountered and heavy volumes of Small Arms Fire were not uncommon. The enemy relied primarily on harassing attacks to delay and disorganize units.

b. Cam Lo - Con Thien Area

(1) The enemy conducted an orderly, and generally well coordinated withdrawal as friendly units advanced through the objective area. The enemy's tactics were to maintain contact by distant Small Arms Fire, mortar, artillery, and/or rockets to slow the advance of friendly units during the daylight hours, then to frequently mortar defensive positions at night.

To illustrate the enemy's defense in depth, Annex (D) depicts the enemy's defensive installations, and mortar, artillery, and rocket positions.

4. Weather and Terrain

a. Co Bi Thanh Tan

(1) Weather. No adverse weather conditions occurred during the period.

(2) Terrain. The operating area was predominantly jungle covered mountains restricting movement to existing trails, and in almost all cases, trails had to be cut through the undergrowth to facilitate movement. The slopes of hills range from gentle to steep, hills were separated by valleys and stream beds. Water was in abundance. Upon leaving the hills, the battalion moved through numerous rice paddies.

b. Cam Lo - Con Thien Area

(1) Weather. No adverse weather conditions occurred during the period.

(2) The objective area had two distinctive topographic regions. The east portion of the area was predominately rolling plains of generally less than 50 meters. This region had large area of open grasslands flanked by hedgerows and dense secondary growth. Many cultivated areas were found scattered throughout the area and only a few native dwellings were still useable. The secondary growth which separated the cleared and cultivated areas was extremely dense. The wide variety of closely spaced trees found in the secondary growth severely restricted foot movement and limited observation and fields of fire. The western portion of the objective area consisted primarily of hills ranging up to 190 meters. The vegetation on the hills was predominantly elephant grass. Strands of forest were generally encountered on the slopes of the hills. These strands were usually small in size, and the trees in them were generally spaced far enough apart that ease of movement could be rapidly made. The vegetation in the valleys separating the hills was predominantly burned out forest. The trees were sufficiently dense to prohibit direct movement through them, but were also spaced well enough apart that ease of movement could be rapidly made. The characteristics of the area favored the enemy by providing him with ample cover and concealment for personnel/equipment.

2. Summary

a. Standard method of control of frequencies while in field; utilization of assigned frequencies as listed in COI for TACP, resupply Medevacs, CAS is necessary to avoid the confusion of trying to run all phases of air support on one TACP frequency; as the 2nd Bn, 26th Marines ALO experienced during operation Hickory. OP orders should outline frequency assignments for air support and logistics relative to that operation area, thereby establishing a net structure by which all units would familiarize themselves with prior to the operation.

b. During operation Hickory resupply and Medevac helicopters were constantly interfering with artillery preps or CAS strikes. Coordinating units should advise helo's moving toward most forward ground or point unit best avenue of approach so as not to interfere with fire activities forward of front line units. Striking the enemy when in the open and prepping an objective prior to unit advance is of primary concern; interference by a resupply or Medevac helo only causes a loss of the element of surprise when enemy troops are caught in open, and possible incomplete preparatory fire on objective. Helo pilot should coordinate with DASC, ground units or AO on station to provide him with direction to parallel ZOA and best rear line avenue of approach. During operation Hickory units at times were never advised of helo's ETA, thereby allowing a situation as previously described to develop, because of the unsuspected arrival of the helo over area.

c. Closer coordination and advisory between LSA and resupply helicopters when 1 helo is loaded with mixed cargo, resulting in deposit at two different LZ's. LSA should advise pilot what units cargo is aboard and necessity for contacting the two units being resupplied.

d. Utilization of RTIO or PRC-41 on a preset frequency assigned to a battalion for the conduct of CAS; each battalion should be assigned a different CAS frequency to operate on, to avoid interfering and crowding one frequency. PRC-41 is heavy, bulky, consequently its use is limited. When UHF is not made available to TACP teams working in the field it greatly reduces their effectiveness and detracts from the originally conceived mission of the FAC in the field. Depending on liaison or media for relay is not the most effective means of achieving our objective when airstrikes in close proximity of troops is necessary - direct communication from ground (controller) and strike aircraft is a must. Relaying the instructions through AO in event ground FAC is controlling only allows for human error factor involving misinterpretation and incorrect relay of instructions from ground. Aircraft have dropped ordnance in area of friendlies in the past and it will happen in the future when direct line communication has not been established.

12. Administrative Matters. The administrative plan initially was not in the hands of the operating units until after the operation began. This caused some problems in the beginning. Administrative support was adequate.

a. Supply

- (1) While on this operation the battalion was supported by the LSA unit located in the Shawnee area. Throughout the operation this battalion received excellent cooperation and support from Lt CAILE and his men.
- (2) The Regimental S-4 of the 4th Marines helped in every way possible and on many occasions Major LINNEMAN called to see if he could do more for us.
- (3) All supplies were timely and adequate, although there were occasions when utility uniforms and boots were called for, but not received.
- (4) Resupply of the out lying units was excellent and the helicopters used in support of this resupply were adequate.

b. Maintenance. Organic facilities for 2d echelon repair of weapons, vehicles and communications equipment were located in the rear CP. This permitted expeditious repair when required spare parts were available.

c. Treatment of Casualties, Evacuation and Hospitalization

- (1) A battalion aid station and ward were established in the battalion CP rear. The ward was utilized for the treatment, retention and observation of casualties until evacuation by motor vehicles was practical.

e. Communications. During the operation there were no communication problems with the PRC-25 equipment. There was a relay station established which was utilized while the battalion was on the opposite side of the primary mountain ridge from Regiment.

f. Medical Evaluation. Operation Shawnee proved to be a difficult area for helo evacuation. In some instances the injured had to be carried some distance to the landing zone due to terrain. Other than this no major problems were encountered.

13. Special Equipment and Techniques. Engineers were used extensively for clearing LZ's, blowing duds and enemy emplacements.

14. Commander's Analysis

a. Though a large area was covered during the Operation, contacts were few and with small units. There was no evidence of large enemy units operating in area recently.

b. The Battalion conducted the Operation using an "Alpha" and "Bravo" Command Group. This was necessary due to large area of operation, dispersion of companies and for adequate control of subordinate units.

15. Recommendations. It is believed that there is still a sizable enemy force operating within the general area further northwest. Further operations in the area are recommended.

ground, resulting in loss of over 1/2 the resupply water; the FAC operator informed pilot of situation with no success.

(w) 28 May - No Medevacs or fixed wing required.

7. Intelligence

a. Enemy Situation at Beginning of Operation

(1) At the beginning of the operation, an enemy unit estimated to be of battalion size, was maintaining contact with friendly units. Initially; the enemy would attack with mortars to halt the advance of a friendly unit, then would open contact with a heavy volume of small arms fire, including numerous machine guns.

(2) As friendly units advanced through the objective area the enemy began withdrawing towards the DMZ. The enemy continued to employ mortars extensively, frequently firing rockets and artillery in an attempt to delay the friendly units. While the enemy never attempted to counter-attack or hold any definite position he was found to be well organized and well equipped. On occasions when contact was made, the enemy conducted a well coordinated plan of defense and would not break contact until friendly artillery was called.

b. Weather and Terrain

(1) No adverse weather conditions occurred during the operation.

(2) The objective area had two distinctive topographic regions. The east portion of the area was predominately rolling plains of generally less than 50 meters. This region had large areas of open grasslands flanked by hedgerows and dense secondary growth. Many cultivated areas were found scattered throughout the area and only a few native dwellings were still useable. The secondary growth which separated the cleared and cultivated areas was extremely dense. The wide variety of closely spaced trees found in the secondary growth severely restricted foot movement and limited observation and fields of fire. The western portion of the objective area consisted primarily of hills ranging up to 190 meters. The vegetation on the hills was predominantly elephant grass. Strands of forest were generally encountered on the slopes of the hills. These strands were usually small in size, and the trees were generally spaced far enough apart to permit easy movement. The vegetation in the valleys separating the hills was predominantly burned out forest. The trees were of such density that direct movement was prohibited, but were spaced well enough apart that ease of movement could be rapidly made. The characteristics of the area favored the enemy by providing him with ample cover and concealment for personnel/equipment.

8. Mission. To conduct a search and destroy operation in area (YD 1468, north to southern boundaries of the DMZ, southwest to YD 0669, then south to route #9).

9. Concept of Operation. To attack north from vic of CON THIEN, in column supported by tanks and mortars to conduct search and destroy to the southern boundary of the DMZ. On order attack to east to capture or destroy enemy forces, supplies and equipment. On order attack to the south and continue mission to route #9.

12. Administrative Matters

a. Supply

(1) At the beginning of the operation we encountered many obstacles which made the resupply of our units in the field a difficult task. Our first problem was that the HST Team as signed to our unit was not informed of the radio frequency they had to man, nor of the procedure involved to request a resupply. Due to the intense combat action at the very beginning of the operation this lack of knowledge caused emergency resupplies to be confused, but as time went by this obstacle was overcome.

(2) It is an unquestionable fact that the 3d Shore Party Bn. located at Dong Ha has to support a numerous amount of units located in that area, but their manner of operation was quite different from their brethren during the Shawnee Operation. The point we are trying to convey here is that we can cope with any type of operation as long as we have prior knowledge of what has to be done. An example of this would be in the Shawnee Operation. All items of resupply were procured by LSA and placed in the LZ with exception of Class II and Sundry Packs. Where as on the Praire IV, Hickory, and Cimarron operations all items had to be procured by our own Battalion rear and placed in the LZ. We were naturally unprepared for this situation. The only people located in our battalion rear at Dong HA was a two (2) man S-1, two (2) man S-4, and a two (2) man Supply. If we had not been fortunate enough to have some vehicle drivers remain behind we would never have been able to get the gear to the LZ.

(3) The gathering of the resupply items were made harder by the far flung areas in which the agencies' supplies had to be obtained from where located in relation to the LZ. Also in order to draw certain types of medical supplies there had to be a Corpsman from our unit on hand to do this. On a number of occasions when our personnel went to the ammunition supply point there were people who did not even know what was in the dump and our own people had to go and find what they needed. This caused unnecessary delay, especially when there was an emergency request. Also some of the personnel at the ASP had a lackadasical attitude when it came to emergency resupply. It is recommended that the LZ and the supply agencies be more closely related.

(4) It was experienced during this operation that there were many items of equipment not available in the rear areas such as the M-60's and M-16's for the MAC-25. This happened because the MAC-25 did not have a ready supply of 7.62mm ammunition. It is never available in the rear areas. On one occasions when 50 linked ammunition was issued to us. Also a three (3) day period elapsed before we could be resupplied with gun rounds for the M-79 Grenade Launcher. It would be advisable on an operation of this magnitude that those essential items of resupply be made readily available.

(5) It is recognized that on occasions the resupply request from the field was late. This caused a hardship on 3d Shore Party Bn when it came to fragging helicopters for the next days resupply, but after the first four days of the operation this was rectified. A point to be mentioned in connection with this is the communications involved. During the greater portion of the operation the communication from the field was poor to say the least. On some occasions it was necessary to relay through two neighboring units in order to talk to 3d Shore Party Bn. Most of the time we had to relay through the relay station located at the Rockpile and this was only possible at times when the radio was connected to a 292 antenna. Our HST did not have a 292 and we had to use one belonging to another section. If this area is worked again it is recommended that a better and closer relay system be devised for more direct communications. This would erase some of the confusion that occurs when relaying through to many stations. By having no direct communications a number of times supplies for one of our units were dropped at other locations. Our resupply was late due to this lack of direct communications and on a couple occasions was not received at all.

(6) Due to the success of the operation it could be said that supply was adequate. As much as certain essential items of supply were not available on occasions and some not available at all it could be said that supply was inadequate. The important fact is that lessons like this should make us more prepared for the next operation. One outstanding arm of logistical support received by this unit was from the S-4 of the 3d Marine Regiment.

b. Helicopters in support of the operation.

(1) The only adverse thing that could be said about the helicopters would be the fact that some of the pilots are very inflexible. An example would be when a helicopter came into pick up empty water cans. Even though it had enough room left it would not take out any passengers because it had been told to only pick up water cans. In order to take out passengers we would have to frag another bird. This is a duplication of effort.

(2) Not enough can be said about the medical evacuation helicopters. They did an outstanding job, and braved many conditions that would have caused other men to avoid. This unit has nothing but high praise for their support.

c. Maintenance. There was no occasion in which this unit required maintenance other than that performed by our own unit.

d. Medical Support. This unit had a small BAS located at Dong Ha which mostly administered support to "D" Med.

(1) The "D" Med located at Dong Ha did a masterful job in identifying and clearing of casualties as they were received from the field. Although there were on occasions a tremendous amount of casualties received at one time, there was no lost motion by any of the members of "D" Med and they carried out their jobs with enthusiasm.

(2) The only adverse area concerning casualties is the location of the morgue and inadequacy of the facilities available. It would seem that it being a sore point of discussion, that this would be corrected. It is recommended that a isolated location be found and more freezer vans be procured.

13. Communications

DECLASSIFIED

a. During operation the radio set AN/PRC-25 continued to provide very dependable communications.

b. Difficulties were encountered when units were on the move but still remained good.

c. Difficulties were experienced several times due to the close assignments of frequencies within the command group.

d. The RC 292 antenna was used to maintain communication with higher echelon at all command posts positions.

14. Commander's Analysis

a. During the entire operation the coordination between air and artillery was slow and check fire on artillery and mortars were excessive. An air strike in front of one battalion must not prevent an adjacent battalion from firing artillery and mortars.

b. It was discovered four days into the operation that the LSA commander did not have the thrust points and in fact, had not been issued a copy of the operation order. This situation caused considerable difficulty in resupply.

15. Recommendations

a. That close coordination of supporting arms be accomplished to reduce time lags in prep fires and to prevent air strikes in one zone of action from masking the fires of supporting arms in an adjacent zone.

b. That all units concerned including combat service support be made thoroughly aware of the details of the operation they are to support.
