On 31 May our Surveillance Radar (AN/UPS-1C) controlled one (1) F-10 south of Ballang for a distance of 85 miles. A stronger IFF would have lengthered the distance 20 miles.

During the menth there were two (2) missions cancelled due to weather. Both were FAB aircraft with non-beacon capability. AN/TPQ-10 usually is unable to lock on aircraft in thunderstorm conditions with skin paint only.

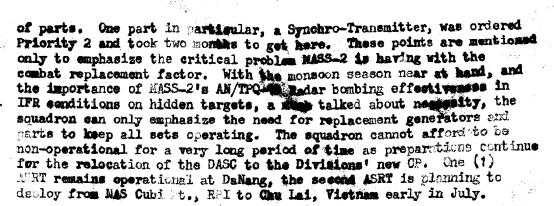

fost strike damage assessment continues to be negative. Such results are a necessity if the AA/T/Q-10 is to become extremely accurate as is its capability. IstMAN (G-3) had stated they might be able to give post strike damage assessment following the runs of June 4. None has been received with the exception of one or two pilot reports.

being used in the Happy Valley area, the sn/Tro-10 and AN/OPS-10 being used in the Happy Valley area, the sn/Tro-10 and AN/OPS-10 smalllance Radar were used to orientete end vector the unfamiliar pilots to their target areas. On June14, 1965, four (4) automatic runs were made by the AN/TPQ-10. These are the first to be run in Vietnam or in combat by U.S. Forces. 1/Lt. Tom HADDOCK controlled two (2) Hatred And that expended 8 NK-81's on a 20' round defense structure during these first automatic runs.

Three (3) missions were aborted in June because of radar failure. This was mainly due to the lack of 400 cycle generator power that has been mentioned in previous recorts.

suadron spent more than helf of the reporting period operating on borrowed generators. One (1) AN/C -10 is down for parts and generator ower. Two (2) AN/TPQ-10 radars and the other AN/C -10 are all operating on borrowed generators. Three (3) 6-344's, six (6) PU-346's, six (6) PU-346's, six (6) PU-346's,
