In working for 15B the ISA at 55 on two separate loads wrong gear was placed on the aircraft. Both times the aircraft (Highboy) took the gear to the LZ as instructed by the ISA (Charlie Brooks) and once on the ground the receiving LZ had the wrong gear.

also this was complicated by the fact that the ISA placed Wonder why in emergency supply of Agrom on an aircraft and instructed the bird to go to Barker A, which the aircraft did. We had to take the gear out of Barker A and drop it to Wonder why, after dark because the ISA were not marking the loads properly.

I was told to pick up the par I had dropped at LZ 11 at 1030. I returned and waited for 2 hours. I RTB and was put on a stand by. I stood by and finally called Group S-3. They informed me that Col. McQuarry's jeep had been driven to LZ 11 at 1230 to pick him up.

Mission 21 was comprised of 8 lines A-H. Upon completion of A we went to LZ 467 to commence line B. When we arrived we discovered that nobody expected us and had no knowledge of a VR for the 26th Marines. We then went to An Hoa. The frag was the most poorly written one I've ever seen. It mentions the pick up point, destination and time but not a word is written as to what the cargo is or whether to expect pop or not. When we arrived at An Hoa the tower checked with operations to see if there was any cargo or pop for LZ 467. There were none. An Hoa DASC had no knowledge whatsoever of mission 21. I contacted Da Nang DASC and informed them of the 2 discrepancies which had already occurred and asked them to tell us what we were expected to do on each of the remaining lines. Line F stated to contact Da Nang DASC so I did and they had no idea as to why I should have contacted them. Line H was scheduled as a VR. We reported to Panama Hat and after waiting at LZ 410 for 15 minutes I was informed that they had no need for us.

This mission (21) did accomplish something but a better written frag and more cooperation from the ground units supported would have made it much more useful. As it was there was much time wasted; time in which the helicopters could have performed some service to any unit which may have needed it.
