Thank you for your response. I live in Auburndale, FL, between Tampa and Orlando. I am eager ot help in any way possible. I am confused about the lack of respect that the veterans who died after the fact get from the government and society. I have recently discovered a memorial sight in my father's home town of Ocala, Fl where the honor war veterans with either a bench or plaque (of course at a cost). I still feel that a bigger cause is out there for the people who loved these soldiers of war. I hope to help in anyway possible. Not to change the subject, but do you have any ideas on how I could acquire the information about my father's commendation? Thanks again for your response. Sincerely, Russell Baroni
