Dear Bruce:

So you want to get back in the letter-writing habit, eh? Just don't laugh at my penny loafers any more! As you must know by now, there are millions of penny loafer wearers among the better classes.

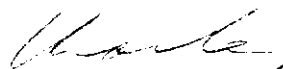

Enclosures for you. I called two guys the first night I had the list: Tom Pitts and Don Smith. Both have been nailed by PTSD. Pitts is recovering and back to work full time, but Smith is on disability and lives in a VA hospital. Smith was my platoon radioman in 3d before I went to 2d Plt. and burdened you with the task. You can tell your wife you were a fine radio humper but weak at tactical conceptualization. Nice vague big words. Maybe you can add to the Alpha Roster from your VA computer lists before the reunion in July.

We would like to learn more about your bride. Can you spare a wedding picture?

Mr. Bruce Williams
