

Dec 4, 1979

Dear Lt. Anderson,

I most certainly do remember you. It seems like a long ~~time~~ time ago and yet it could have been yesterday.

You'll be glad to know I went to college after about a year of working at Lubrizol in Painesville. I ended up becoming an analytical chemist & work for Gould engine parts Division in Cleveland. I also got into real estate about four years ago and have six house.

The most ~~exciting~~ exciting thing for me has been the Cleveland Browns games this year. I got my notice for playoff tickets yesterday along with your letter. Me and my two brothers Rick & Chuck go to all the games, we always raise hell and get three sheets to the wind. I really don't think I've changed very much in the last ten years. I still get crazy every now and then, mostly then. Me and Jazka still see one another every now and then he's married and has two kids. I haven't Heard from Reed for about five years thought.

As far as Nam goes I really don't know how I feel after all these years I talk a lot about it ~~probably~~ probably more than most ex-marines, I am probably a little bitter after all we all lost a lot of friends over there and we did lose the war, Even though it seem like 'we' won. I got a ton of medals in the closet and I killed a load of gooks but, I know we didn't win the war. I met some of the greatest people in the world in the marines. By the way, I just got my "I don't Brake For IRANIAN'S" sticker some old ex-marine was passing them out at the Football game Sunday. I called ~~Ray~~ Jazka and he said he was polishing his old M-16 up ~~and~~ hell all we need is a good First Lieutenant, any ways we have three kids one boy & two girls and a dog named Husky who is a Husky of course. ~~and~~ and Chris is bugging me about

What were going to get the kids For Christmas
so I better talk to her about it. By the way your book will probably sell a few copies in the Cleveland area. keep in touch

J. SLOBAN

Parmesville, Ohio
44077

A large, stylized handwritten signature in cursive script, likely belonging to J. Sloban, written in black ink.

J. SLOBAN

Painesville, Ohio
44077

BY AIR MAIL

Mr. C. R. Anderson

JAPAN