1. Enemy Initiated Activity

Enemy activity was light over the last week with most action being characterized by harassing fires.

2. Enemy Probable Course of Action

There are indications the enemy is primarily concerned with gathering food and retraining. There are also reports of more use of mines and booby-traps in areas frequently used by friendly forces.

A step up in harassing fires around the pacification villes in the 5/46 AO can be expected over the next few weeks.

1. SUMMARY OF ENEMY SITUATION

a. Enemy Capabilities

(1) To conduct countersweep and blocking operation to detour and prevent offensive operations directed toward base camp and caches.

(2) The enemy can defend from well-fortified positions to include bunkers, trenches and tunnels, otherwise he will avoid any major contact and withdraw in any direction.

b. Current INTSUM's (Area Studies attached as Appendix 1).

c. Weather

(1) The outlook is still for a slow return to a more seasonable weather pattern. There are no major weather changes or frontal surges expected during the period. The low level flow should gradually become east or southeast and this should produce fair skies, warmer temperatures and gusty afternoon winds throughout most of the AO. There is still the hazard of nocturnal stratus and fog, but this will burn off by 1000 hours. There will be a chance of isolated rainshowers in the western regions.

(2) Illumination Data: See Appendix 2.

d. Terrain

(1) Topography: This area is characterized by steep slopes and is considered generally impassable to tracked vehicles.

(2) Vegetation: Consists of multi-canopy dense undergrowth forest in most areas. However, in the valley vicinity BS2796 vegitation is classed in the brushwood, coffee and tea plantation category.

(3) Drainage: There are streams in every valley of the area.

(4) Roads: See Appendix 3.

(4) Where are the enemy base camps, hospitals, caches, tunnels and bunkers?

(5) Where has the enemy implaced mine and boobytrapps? What type? When were they emplaced? Are there any warning signals indicating areas where mines or boobytraps are emplaced?

(6) What is the enemy unit designation, weaponry and mission?

b. OIR

(1) Infiltration Route:

(a) Is this area used as an infiltration route?

(b) How many people infiltrate through this area a month?

(c) Where do they go?

(2) What has been the enemy losses for the last month?

(3) How is enemy moral?

(4) What is the enemy combat efficiency?

(5) Current SICR's

Annex C (Fire Support) to FRAG ORDER 6-70

1. (C) Fire support for the maneuver companies will initially be provided by Btry A (8"), 3rd Bn, 18th Arty, located at TRA BONG. Upon their occupation of LZ BUSTER, four (4) 105mm howitzers from Btry C, 1st Bn, 14th Arty will assume the direct support mission, while Btry A, 3/18th Arty will revert to its general support role.

2. (C) All forward observers will use Btry A, 3/18th Arty fire direction net until directed by the Artillery LNO to switch to the Btry C, 1/14th Artillery fire direction net. In the event of unsatisfactory communications between the forward observers and Btry A, 3/18th Arty, the Arty LNO will relay transmissions.

3. (C) There will be an artillery prep on the LZ located at grid BS267997, utilizing Btry A, 3/18th Artillery.

4. (C) Priority of fires will go to units in contact.

5. (C) Artillery fires will be employed against targets of opportunity and suspect locations whenever practicable.

6. (C) When firing in their defensive targets, the forward observers will plot the initial round at such a distance as to preclude any deviation from their location on the map as compared to their actual ground location due to poor visibility.

7. (C) The fire coordination line (FCL) is as depicted on the scheme of maneuver. The FCL will remain in effect for the duration of the operation unless otherwise notified.

1. Enemy Initiated Activity

Enemy initiated activity remained very light this past week with only mine and boobytrap incidents.

2. Movements

Based on increasing agent reports and not readings recorded by an APD station, the 409th Sapper Bn is again being carried in its normal AO in the [illegible], HUI DAU area. All other units remain in their normal AO's.

3. Probable Course of Enemy Action

The enemy will probably continue a protracted type warfare by laying more mines, attempting to assassinate GVN officials, and generally avoiding contact. However, intelligence indicates the possibility of sapper attacks on pacification areas and GVN and US forces operating in our AO after 30 March.
