

1ST SQUADRON 1ST CAVALRY
BLACK HAWK

REPUBLIC OF VIETNAM
1971

HISTORY OF THE 1st SQUADRON, 1st CAVALRY

More than one hundred and thirty years of service is the proud heritage of the First Cavalry Regiment, the oldest regiment of cavalry in the United States Army and the first regiment of cavalry to be completely mechanized. It traces its history to 1833, when, as a result of the need for a mounted force to protect the pioneers who were pushing westward across the Mississippi River into the Indian country, Congress authorized the organization of "The United States Regiment of Dragoons," which became the "First Regiment of Dragoons" in 1836 and the "First Regiment of Cavalry" in 1861.

Troops A,B,C,D, and E with Regimental Headquarters, were organized at Jefferson Barracks, Missouri in the summer and fall of 1833, and marched from there to Fort Gibson, Oklahoma. They were joined at Fort Gibson in the spring of 1834 by Troops F,G,H,I, and K, which had also been organized at Jefferson Barracks.

The Regiment soon found itself scattered along the Indian frontier through Oklahoma, Kansas, Iowa, and Minnesota, living the hard life of the Pioneer. In addition to this frontier duty the Regiment pushed West on long marches to explore a practically unknown country and to protect the settlers traveling the Santa Fe Trail. These marches extended as far as western Wyoming and often covered more than 2,000 miles. The Regiment participated in the Mexican War and then, until 1861, again fought Indian Wars in Nebraska, Kansas, New Mexico, Arizona, California, Oregon and Washington.

Located in Arizona and on the Pacific Coast at the outbreak of the Civil War, the Regiment joined the Army of the Potomac and fought with that Army in all of its principal battles. With the close of the Civil War, the Regiment resumed its Indian campaigns, fighting Apaches in Arizona and various other tribes throughout the west.

From its far western posts, the Regiment was assembled at Chickamauga for the Spanish-American War, took part in that war and the Philippine Insurrection that followed, and returned to the United States in 1903.

It served on the Mexican border during World War I and in 1933 was the first cavalry regiment to be completely mechanized, being designated the First Armored Regiment (L) on 15 July 1940, and became part of the First Armored Division stationed at Fort Knox, Kentucky.

In 1942 the Regiment was deployed to Ireland with the 1st Armored Division and subsequently fought throughout North Africa and Italy. After World War II, the Regiment was reorganized as the 1st Tank Battalion and later converted to the 1st Constabulary Squadron, serving on occupation duty in Germany until 20 December 1948, when it was inactivated.

Reactivated as the 1st Medium Tank Battalion on 7 March 1951, at Fort Hood, Texas, the Regiment served with Combat Command A, 1st Armored Division, until 3 February 1962 when the remainder of the 1st Armored Division was reactivated. At this time the Regiment was redesignated as the 1st Squadron, 1st Cavalry, and resumed its historic role as the "eyes and ears" of its parent organization. During October, 1962, as a result of the Cuban Crisis, the Squadron moved to Fort Stewart, Georgia with other elements of the Division. As the world situation eased, the Squadron participated in a STRAC mobility exercise and amphibious training at Fort Everglades, Florida. During the spring of 1963, the Squadron took part in the STRICOM exercise "Swift Strike" and then returned to Fort Hood.

In January, 1967, the Squadron commander was called to Vietnam to assist in a study of the role of armor in Vietnam. In March, 1967 the Squadron was alerted for movement to Vietnam. From March to August, 1967, the Squadron trained daily in all phases of squad, platoon, troop, and Squadron operations. Upon their arrival in Vietnam in August, 1967, the 1st Squadron was deployed in I Corps Tactical Zone around the city of Chu Lai. The Squadron was committed to battle two days after its arrival and has been in the field operating against the North Vietnamese Army and Viet Cong continuously since that time.

The Tet Counteroffensive Campaign of 1968, began on 28 January and lasted until 1 April, 1968. The fighting during this period which culminated in 217 separate engagements, was characterized by "conventional warfare" as the communists attacked with multi-battalion operations and also defended with large units from well-prepared fortifications. Through their exceptional professional ability and dedication, the 1st Squadron, 1st Cavalry was awarded the Presidential Unit Citation. The 1/1 Cav fought four large separate engagements: Pineapple Forest, Tam Ky, Craterville, & Cigar Island. Beginning July 1, the 1/1 Cav took part in the Vietnam Counteroffensive Phase V, participating in operation Burlington Trail, located along Route 533. The extraordinary heroism and devotion to duty displayed during this time earned the unit the Valorous Unit Award.

The Vietnam Counteroffensive Campaign Phase VI began in November and found the 1st Cavalry about to undertake a new mission. Operation Hardin Falls, which began that December, was an extensive village pacification effort. However, due to lack of support by the Province Chief, Operation Hardin Falls ended 28 February, 1969, just in time for the Tet 69 Counteroffensive Campaign. The 1st Cavalry again found itself in combat in the Pineapple Forest area counterattacking and siezing Hill 38. In March the 1st Squadron, 1st Cavalry, fought the Battle of the Cane Field. In this battle cavalry tracks were unable to advance to enemy positions due to a large sugar cane field. The platoon, became very low on ammunition, when an occurrence rarely seen took place. The NVA launched an infantry assault across open ground. The platoon used the advantage to almost completely wipe out the opposing force. Up to the start of the Fall Campaign in June fighting was sporadic. During the early period of the campaign the 1st Squadron of the 1st Cavalry, worked with U.S. and ARVN infantry units in zone reconnaissance. In September the Cavalry participated in operation Iron Mountain in the Duc Pho area along Highway 1. Several sweeps through the "Rice Bowl" area produced 122 enemy killed. On 9 September, the Squadron returned to Chu Lai, to end the Fall Campaign.

In December the Cav received the M551 "Sheridan" combat vehicle replacing the M48A3 tank, and spent time training with the new equipment. The first encounter for the new "Sheridans" was in January near Tam Ky. It was a heavy encounter with the Cav killing 142 NVA in January and February. During the Summer of 1970, the 1st of the 1st's area of operations was Quang Tin Province, called Pennsylvannia Square. It was to support the pacification effort. Also due to smaller enemy units the Cav adopted new methods of combat, among them platoon operations, dismounted patrols and mechanical ambushes. The Squadron returned to Chu Lai, January 1971.

The 1st Cavalry was not in Chu Lai long before they received orders to move to the Khe Sahn area located next to the Laoian border. From the start it was a tough struggle. The heat was intense during the day and the dust was thick. At night it became extremely cold yet fires and smoking were prohibited to keep positions concealed. Since there were no roads in the mountainous jungle terrain near the Laos border, roads had to be made to keep the tracks moving, but most of the time the tracks made their own trails. Air cover was almost impossible due to the terrain, thus it was up to the Cav. The mountainous terrain plus the difficulty of mobility allowed small enemy units a great advantage in ambushes and night attacks.

The Khe Sahn operation was a phenomenal feat which will be long remembered by those who participated.
