More than 400 book reviews annually, written by prominent scholars and classified under American Government, Foreign Governments, History, Sociology, Anthropology, Economics, Labor, International Relations, Asia, Africa, Latin America, Philosophy, and Education.

Summaries of Disciplines: recent developments in one of the subfields of anthropology, economics, history, political science, social psychology, or sociology are reviewed in each issue by a leading specialist.

Meetings addressed by statesmen, scholars, ambassadors, and authors, attended by 800 to 1,000 members and delegates, and conducted with a free flow of opinion from the floor.

The Place of The Academy

The Academy was organized seventy-nine years ago, for the purpose of providing a forum for the oral and written discussion of political, social, and economic problems. Today, the magnitude of these problems, confronting both our own country and the rest of the world, merits the attention and cooperation of informed persons here and abroad. The Academy believes that intelligent and thoughtful people can satisfactorily meet these issues, but only through open and frank discussions. Problems to be solved must be understood, hence their many aspects must be considered and all arguments carefully weighed. The symposium method carried out by The Academy through its meetings and through its regular publication, THE ANNALS, provides this opportunity. The Academy does not take sides, but seeks to procure the most reliable information to assist the public in forming an intelligent opinion.

The Academy welcomes as members those persons who wish to utilize this method of keeping closely informed regarding conditions in this country and in the world. The only financial obligation involved is the payment of twelve dollars as an annual membership fee. (Cloth edition, sixteen dollars per year; life membership, five hundred dollars.)
