Dear Friend,

While the appetizers of "detente" are savored with such relish by Dr. Kissinger, President Nixon and many in positions of authority, some attention should be paid to the potential toxicity of the main course of the dinner.

This statement appeared in PRAVDA, the newspaper published by the Communist Party of the Soviet Union on August 22, 1973:

"Peaceful coexistence does not spell an end to the struggle between the two world social systems. The struggle will continue between the proletariat and the bourgeoisie, between world socialism and imperialism, up to the complete and final victory of communism on a worldwide scale."

There we have it in words any rational person can understand. Peaceful coexistence means struggle leading to the final worldwide victory of communism. This means the victory of the Soviet Union over the United States.

Detente is the present feast being shared by the Soviet Union and the U.S.A. which celebrates the principles of peaceful coexistence. It begins with summit conferences, increased trade and cultural interchange and disarmament agreements. The main course is dominant Soviet military might, massive worldwide propaganda against imperialism, industrial and economic sabotage and the subversion of youth, while the dessert is blackmailed surrender. The totality is lethal.

Detente is the application of the policy expressed by the formula, "External encirclement, plus internal demoralization, leads to progressive surrender."

Both communist theory and communist history give a clear picture of what the "complete and final victory of communism on a worldwide scale" would mean. It would mean the replacement of limited constitutional government in the U.S.A. by the monopoly dictatorship of the Communist Party. It would mean the "liquidation of the bourgeoisie which is the elimination of all private business and businessmen, including the probable physical extermination of many; it would mean the abolition of freedom of speech, freedom of assembly, freedom of religion, freedom of the press and academic freedom while the Communist Party dictates what is said, who assembles, who is worshipped, what is published, and what is written. It would mean death for many and slavery for all.

It has been said that to be forewarned is to be forearmed. I hope so. I hope this warning will stimulate many to arm the Crusade with the financial resources to fight the battle to prevent the "final victory of communism on a worldwide scale."

With Christian love,
