MEMORANDUM

TO: ISI Members in Virginia and Washington, D. C.

FROM: Jim Taylor, Eastern/Southern Director

RE: ISI Lectures in Virginia and Washington, D. C.

On the week of October 22nd ISI will sponsor three lectures in your area by Dr. Thomas Molnar, distinguished Conservative author, philosopher, and teacher. ISI has gone to considerable expense and effort in arranging these appearances. Therefore, I would urge you to make every effort you can to attend at least one of these presentations. For many people, this will be one of the few opportunities to hear an alternative to the prevailing academic orthodoxy. Dr. Molnar's itinerary follows.

22 October 1973 8 P.M.
Washington & Lee University - Robert E. Lee Chapel
"Marxism and Culture"

23 October 1973 8 P.M.
University of Virginia - Newcomb Hall
"The Counter-Revolution"

24 October 1973 3:15 P.M.
George Washington University-Stockton Hall
"The Counter-Revolution"

Thomas Molnar is Professor of French Literature at Brooklyn College and Professor of European Intellectual History at Long Island University. He earned two Masters Degrees in Philosophy and French Literature from the University of Brussels and his Doctorate from Columbia University. Professor Molnar is author of BERNANOS: HIS POLITICAL THOUGHT AND PROPHECY, THE DECLINE OF THE INTELLECTUAL, UTOPIA; and others. He is a member of the Editorial Advisory Board of THE INTERCOLLEGIATE REVIEW and is a Trustee of the Intercollegiate Studies Institute.
