

CAMPUS REPRESENTATIVE STATEMENT

I desire to act as Campus Representative for ISI at _____ _____ (school). I understand that I will be sent free promotional materials, including copies of The Intercollegiate Review, IR reprints, plus occasional pamphlets, newsletters, memos, books and miscellaneous materials of interest. I will use these materials to introduce friends and interested students to ISI.

I understand that ISI is an educational organization and I agree not to use ISI's name in connection with any political activity or organization, endorsement of any candidates for elective office or any lobbying for legislation; nor will I represent myself as a legal agent of the Institute. In return I understand that my application will be given preferential treatment along with club leaders should I apply to any ISI seminar or summer school where attendance is limited. I also look forward to receiving free books and pamphlets from ISI which will be for my personal use.

INFORMATION ON THE ISI CAMPUS REPRESENTATIVE PROGRAM

Students and faculty members who have themselves benefited from the programs and activities of the Intercollegiate Studies Institute often ask how they can help others on their campus do the same. Since ISI relies on personal, word-of-mouth "advertising" to interest prospective members in ISI publications and programs, the Campus Representative Program was initiated several years ago to increase the effectiveness of this approach. In this way a single interested individual can have a significant impact at his school "to educate for liberty." It has proved to be highly successful, particularly where there is not an ISI-associated club on the campus.

Any student or professor at a college or university may become an ISI Campus "Rep" by filling in and signing the attached application form. All activities which increase an awareness of the ISI program are encouraged. Particularly effective activities include 1) the distribution of ISI mailing list cards and other literature aimed at interesting students and faculty in joining ISI's mailing list; 2) putting up and refilling ISI mailing list card posters; 3) distributing announcements of ISI programs in the area, including regional seminars, summer schools and lectures; 4) suggesting ISI as a source of speakers to campus lecture committees and alerting ISI of possible opportunities where such speakers could appear with special impact. (Due to financial limitations, ISI's policy is to assume expenses only when a speaker is sponsored by an ISI-associated club or an ISI Campus Rep; when a school or other organization is willing to cover expenses, however, ISI is more than happy to make arrangements, often resulting in reduced honoraria costs for these groups.)

As an ISI Campus Rep you will be provided with posters, brochures, copies of The Intercollegiate Review, IR Reprints, and other ISI materials. Your name will be placed on a special mailing list informing you of new materials as they become available and suggesting new ways to increase ISI's impact on your campus. You will receive from time to time special books and pamphlets for your personal library as a token of ISI's appreciation, as well as special consideration for acceptance to ISI Summer Schools.

If you do consider the ISI program valuable and would like to assist in this way, please complete and return the enclosed form. As ISI's Eastern/Southern Director I will make every effort to see that you have an adequate supply of materials and to respond personally to any special problems or questions you may have during the school year.
