The Libertarian Alternative

There is a real alternative to the tired rhetoric and failed programs offered by Jimmy Carter, Ronald Reagan and John Anderson.

Unlike Carter, Reagan and Anderson, Libertarian presidential candidate Ed Clark unconditionally opposes the draft--and the interventionist foreign policy which leads to it. Unlike them, Ed Clark opposes government interference in our personal lives, whether through marijuana laws or sexual regulations. Unlike them, Clark favors freeing the economy from government control so that consumers, not special interests, decide economic priorities. Unlike the other candidates, Ed Clark is a man of conviction who offers a clear choice in November.

If you think Ed Clark's distinctive views deserve to be heard, help us organize a Students for Clark chapter by attending our ~~organizational~~ meeting:

"I heard more ideas from Ed Clark, Libertarian candidate for President, in 25 minutes than I've heard from Carter, Reagan and Anderson in the last four months."
