There isn't a CHEAP or UNRELIABLE handgun pictured here, yet they have all been classified as "Saturday-night specials" by the anti-gun politicians and their cohorts.

HANDGUNS ARE A GIRL'S BEST FRIEND

President Nixon described the shooting of Sen. John C. Stennis as a senseless act and said he hoped that now Congress will "get some action on legislation to ban the small handguns known as 'Saturday-night specials.'" (SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE, Feb. 1, 1973).

He ordered Attorney Gen. Kleindiest to prepare "STRONG new proposals for gun-control legislation which would pass Congress." (DAILY COURIER, Grants Pass, Ore., Feb. 1, 1973).

The POLITICIANS' "Saturday-night special" legislation will either DISARM or make OUTLAWS of millions of good women like those mentioned below. In behalf of our mothers, wives, and sisters we cannot let it happen. With your help we will not let it happen!

A gunman entered Mrs. Sammie Biller's restaurant in Detroit, Mich., leaped over the counter and demanded money. Confronted by Mrs. Biller's .38 revolver, the startled bandit leaped back over the counter and dashed out the door. (Detroit, Mich., News)

Mrs. E. F. Saltsman of Little Rock, Ark., was working in her grocery store when a young man came in, drew a pistol, and demanded money. When she produced her own gun from under the cash register, the man fled. (Little Rock, Ark., The Little Rock Arkansas Gazette)

Mrs. Rosland Albury of Key Largo, Fla., was awakened from a nap by a young intruder pulling at her kitchen screen. When he got inside he found himself staring into the barrel of her .32 pistol. She called police; then when the youth said he was hungry, she fixed him a peanut butter sandwich. (Jacksonville, Fla., Times-Union)

Two young gunmen pulled up to the Mission Hotel in Houston, Tex., and demanded that hotel employee Mrs. Genevieve Touchstone give them money. She snatched a pistol from the desk and warned them she would shoot if they didn't go away. The gunmen fled. (Houston, Tex., Chronicle)

Atlanta, Ga., police answering a call found Mrs. James F. Brown, wife of the night superintendent of police, calmly holding a burglary suspect at gunpoint. Seeing two men drive up to a neighboring house while the owners were away, she had grabbed a pistol and captured one. The second fled. (Atlanta, Ga., Constitution)

The courage of 6 teenagers bent on robbing a Wilmington, Calif., gift store dissolved in a confrontation with a pistol wielded by the store owner's 70-year-old wife. One of them had a knife at the throat of Byron Gray, 71, proprietor of Gray's Gift and Pottery Shop when they heard Mrs. Gray call out, "Guess what?" At the sight of the pistol she held, they fled. Later, all of the 6 were arrested. (Redondo Beach, Calif., Daily Breeze)

Mrs. Merle Underwood, 64, a nurse in Cincinnati, Ohio, was on her way home from work one night when she was grabbed by one of two men who had been following her. She pulled a pistol out of her coat pocket and shot the man in the neck. Police later arrested the other suspect. (The Post & Times-Star, Cincinnati, Ohio.)

Mrs. Lily Jee, 41, of San Francisco, Calif., was working alone one evening in the small grocery store her husband died defending in a holdup 10 years ago, when a man entered and pulled a gun. He took her money and was about to leave when Mrs. Jee picked up a pistol and shot him. The robber died later. (San Francisco, Calif., The San Francisco Examiner)

Mrs. Edith M. Barry, 41, woke up one morning and discovered a burglar in her bedroom. Seizing a .22 revolver, she shot him. He staggered outside and later was arrested. (The Arizona Republic, Phoenix, Ariz.)

Hearing someone kicking at the front door of her Shelbyville, Ind. home, then enter, Mrs. Gertrude Miller, 74, grabbed her .22 revolver. When she found the intruder rummaging through bureau drawers in her bedroom, she fired. Police found a dazed man with 2 bullet wounds wandering in Mrs. Miller's yard and charged him with burglary. (The Shelbyville, Ind., News)

Seven men noisily invaded the yard of Mrs. Lorraine Rodriguez, San Pedro, Calif., one night while she was home alone. When she went outside, they threatened to beat her. Mrs. Rodriguez fired one shot from her cal. .38 revolver. All seven men ran. (San Pedro, Calif., News Pilot)

Mrs. Leslie Lee Brown, 25, mother of 6, was awakened in her Houston, Ex., home at 4:50 a.m. when a man climbed onto her bed. Mrs. Brown screamed and fired several shots at the intruder with a small .22 caliber pistol she kept under her pillow for protection. The would-be assailant fled into the darkness. Later, at dawn, police found his body on the porch of a nearby house. (Houston Post)

Mrs. Henrietta Dillon, 62, pulled a .22 pistol after two youths, one armed, entered her Roanoke, Va., grocery store and demanded money. Both fled. (The World-News, Roanoke, Va.)

As Mrs. Sarah Edmondson, 55, was walking to work at a bakery in Baltimore, Md., at 5:30 a.m., a young thug punched her in the face and stomach and knocked her to the street. "You know what I want!" he said. What he got was a cal. .32 pistol bullet in the neck from a handgun that Mrs. Edmondson yanked out of her handbag. Police followed a trail of blood and arrested a 26-year-old suspect. (Baltimore, Md., News-American)

Mrs. Kay Keiser, of Bloomington, Ill., was alone one night when she became alarmed by the sound of breaking glass at her back porch door. She got out a .22 pistol and fired one shot through the door leading to her porch. A prowler fled immediately. (Bloomington, Ill., The Daily Pantagraph)

A burglary suspect who climbed through the bedroom window of Mary Gordon, 44, in Chicago wound up in a prison hospital with a .22 bullet wound in his back. Awakened as the intruder climbed in, Miss Gordon pulled a pistol and felled the man with one shot. (Chicago Daily News)

Mrs. Keith Boyce and her nine-month-old baby were alone in their secluded home near Tulsa, Okla., one night when a stranger pulled his car into the back yard. Twice burglarized in the preceding 12 months, Mrs. Boyce didn't open the door at his knock. Instead, she waited quietly inside, holding her baby with one hand and a .22 pistol with the other. When the man kicked in another door and entered the home, the young mother fired several times wounding the intruder fatally. (The Tulsa Daily World, Tulsa, Okla.)

OUTCOME: Mrs. Boyce was cleared of manslaughter charges by District Court Judge Robert Simms, Tulsa, Okla. Judge Simms said, "If more people did this," he said, "we would have less of the problem we have in this country." The slain man had a 20 year record of major crime and was free on bond on a burglary charge when shot.

The above incidents are excellent examples of being prepared and alert in the finest American tradition. Defense of self, family, and property is as fundamental as all our other inherent and inalienable rights. To protect and preserve all our rights is an absolute necessity. These rights must not be lost through apathy, complacency, or the subversive actions of scheming traitors in our land who would like nothing better than to have our government disarm us.

Is the American citizen going to sit idly by, saying, "It can't happen here" and let the NIXONS, KENNEDYS, STEVENSONS, HARTS AND ALL THE OTHER HYPOCRITICAL, ANTI-GUN POLITICIANS SADDLE US WITH ANOTHER UNCONSTITUTIONAL, CRIME-INCREASING GUN LAW? WE DON'T KNOW ABOUT YOU, BUT WE ARE GOING TO FIGHT THE ABOVE PROPOSED LEGISLATION WITH ALL THE TIME, EFFORT, AND MONEY WE HAVE. WE HOPE YOU'LL JOIN AND FIGHT WITH US!
