Dear Nominating Committee Member:

Your Chairman screwed up! The fifth paragraph on the cover letter has several errors in it. Similarly for the sample ballot.

Last night Steve Dennison called and told me of the mistakes. Most embarrassing for a former engineer who is known for his correctness of work. Anyway, I'm going to solve the problem by retyping both the fifth paragraph and the sample ballot.

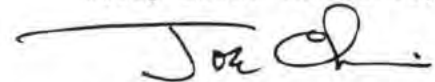

Just cut out the new retyped paragraph and paste it over the old one on the cover sheet of my original letter. Throw the old sample ballot away. Review the names on the new sample ballot and if acceptable to you, sign the new ballot and date it at the bottom where marked and return it to me.

Steve asked me where most of the names came from. I told him the old names on the sample ballot were those who still had time to serve, of which there are nine (9); then there's the two (2) names to replace those whose term of office is expiring; and lastly, three (3) names to give the voters a chance to pick who they want on the Executive Council. Whoever gets the most votes in the eleven (11) names out of the fourteen (14) will be the winners.

Here's the new, retyped fifth paragraph:

One of the pages of the blue-colored handout given at the 1996 National Reunion in Reno, NV (copy of page attached) has a note at the bottom that says: "If any elected Executive Council is unable to serve the term of their position, an alternate will be chosen in the following order: " There are eight (8) names on that list. Since one (1) of the names has been appointed to a position already, why don't we just pick the first two (2) names, Terry Babler and Leslie Hines for the two openings on the Executive Council? Then we can have the following three (3) names, Brian Mulchrome, Richard Heroux, and Malcolm Cate, to be the additional names to make up the fourteen (14) names allowed per the By-Laws.

Sorry about the error,

Joseph B. Chin
