DEAR OGGIE:

How was the fishing in Montana? Did you catch any big 'uns? Or the little 2-footers? Bet you had a good time anyway in the wide open Big Sky Country.

I've been to Saigon and back and didn't like what I saw. The place is really going to the pots or maybe I've grown too cynical. Wouldn't want to make my life-long home as things stand there now. I'm planning on going to Malaysia this week where I'm working on a sort of a free-gratis project right now. But it might develope into something in the future. I also hope I can draw upon your generosity for a bit of help which would entail a couple of telephone calls to a couple of the AID Desks. Here is my little 'want' which I hope I can obtain as it will save me a helluva lot of work.

PREMIER ANGUS, INC. in coordination with INTERNATIONAL LIVESTOCK RESEARCH, INC. submitted a proposal entitled PAI'S PROGRAM FOR INTERNATIONAL OPERATIONS. In this proposal, these two firms would join to conduct studies of countries where beef cattle production possibilities exist. The joint-venture would charge a fee of $ 75,000 for the feasibility study. Then the organizations would go on to propose (if the project deemed feasible) a contract for management and purchase of the original seed stock. From what I gather, AID was at one time studying proposals for Indonesia, Northern Brazil and Tunisia. I don't know if these firms actually done a feasibility study on any of these countries but I see a notation on the paper I have that they are sending 10,000 head of Angus to Indonesia. If this is true, they must have put out a paper on the subject. AID would undoubtedly have a copy. If I could get ahold of this copy, it would save me a helluva lot of work plus it might make me some money (in the future). I would greatly appreciate any help you might give me on the subject. Sure wish I had a copy of the study. In return when the first big King Ranch is developed in Malaysia, I'll give you the opportunity to make the first investment. OK?

Hope to hear from you on this and how you are doing generally. Is Maynard still around D.C? What's his plans since he lost his soft, cushioned couched office in Saigon?

Sincerely,
Harvey
