Dear Peter:

Many thanks for the surprise of your letter of July 9. Regarding my talk at the World Affairs Council, I am sorry not to have seen you but doubt that you missed anything very epoch-making. Since I only speak from notes and do not write out any prepared text, there is not much I can send you, but we could talk about things the next time we meet.

At the moment I am planning some vacation and may spend part of it fishing somewhere. Every weekend I go to West Virginia and that is pretty hard to beat. Occasionally I take the route which goes through Berryville, Upperville, etc., and think of you.

All the best.

Sincerely,

Ogden Williams
