NOTICE TO ALL STUDENTS:

On the occasion of recent appearances by visiting lecturers at the Viet-Nam Training Center, it has been observed that a very small minority of students may have tended to forget that the clear right of disagreement does not imply any right to be discourteous or immature. Specifically, such practices as ostentatious reading of newspapers or loud talking or demonstrative gestures during such lectures reflect little credit upon the people concerned and are inconsistent with the type of hospitality which we should be prepared to extend to those who have consented to come and meet with us.

I think it is reasonable and proper to request that such behavior cease, and I am prepared to take appropriate disciplinary measures in those rare instances where such will regrettably be called for.

The cooperation of all students is requested.
