Professional Interests: I have served in many parts of the world and put down some roots in India, North Africa, and particularly in Vietnam. With more than six years service in Vietnam, I have an abiding interest in that country. I like to work with the Vietnamese, appreciate their qualities even though having no illusions as to their shortcomings. This basic sympathy, a wide range of contacts and extensive experience in working at all levels of the Government have given me considerable entree there and a certain prestige, as well as enabling me to get things done effectively and smoothly in that environment.
