SOUTH VIET NAM

The population of South Viet Nam is almost 16,000,000 with some 2,000,000 of this number crowded into its Capital city, Saigon. The latter was once referred to as the "Paris of the Orient" because of its fine modern buildings, broad boulevards, excellent clubs and restaurants.

Principal languages are Annamese and Chinese with considerable French being spoken in Saigon. The principal religions are Taoist and Buddhist although some ten per cent of the population is Catholic.

The climate is a tropical rainy climate with warm temperatures. Rainfall is heavy primarily in the summer months while winters are dry but still warm. It is mostly a mountainous country and very rugged except for the coastal plains.
