Chief Aerographer's Mate Kenneth Barnett of South Weymouth's Naval Oceanography Command Detachment became one of the first Active Navy chief petty officer weather forecasters this fiscal year to transfer to the TAR (Training and Administration of the Reserve) program. Forecasters have been transitioning to fill 100 billets in the reinstated Aerographer's Mate TAR program. About 20 years ago, the last of the Aerographer's Mate billets transferred to the regular Navy; the new program will draw from the Selected Reserve, from the Regular Navy and from Recruit Training Commands.

Liberty Weekend '86 featured the International Naval Review passing the rededicated Statue of Liberty in New York Harbor. For their part in the success of the ship parade, Reservists in Office of Information Detachment 102 have been named co-winners in the Navy's top award for excellence in public affairs, the Grand Prize of the Admiral Thompson Award. The activity also won the Public Relation Society of America's Silver Anvil Award as one of the best PR projects in the country for the same period.
