[10 June QUAN DOI NHAN DAN commentary: "PLAF Shellings: A Source of Constant Fear for the Americans and Puppets"]

[Text] In the new period of their anti-U.S. national salvation struggle, the southern armed forces and people, developing their strong and victorious position and their offensive initiative, have adopted many inspiring, creative fighting methods, each of which has attained high efficiency.

Shelling, which is one of the highly effective fighting methods, has become a source of constant fear for the U.S. aggressors and their lackeys. Since early Ky Dau spring, along with their raids, ambushes, attacks, and sieges against the enemy, the liberation troops have shelled continuously, repeatedly directing firestorms at enemy dens from Quang Tri to Ca Mau, inflicting serious losses on the Americans and puppets, and driving them into a serious predicament.
