

NHAT NAM. Administrative term used to refer to one of several provinces in occupied Vietnam during the period of Chinese rule. The term referred to an area along the South China Sea coast south of the Hoanh Son spur and comprising the modern-day provinces of Nghe An and Ha Tinh. The term is Sino-Vietnamese and means "South of the Son." Under Chinese rule, the area