

Jim,

I remember the explosion that occurred. We (1/D) were leaving the FSB (Powder) and heading into the An Lao Valley for a mission. As we were heading down the south side of the hill the explosion happened. At first it was reported to be a satchel charge that was dropped into the LP's lap. We set up a defensive position in case there was an attack against the FSB. We then swept the area for possible enemy signs. There were none. We continued to the valley. The following week was a mission from hell. We were in contact every day. I never did realize what the story behind the explosion was. Keep me updated.

Thanks

CAZ
