MATERIALS

Produced in Conjunction with Vietnam: A Television History
Vietnam: A Television History Telecourse: A telecourse was designed to accompany the 13-part series, Vietnam: A Television History. Telecourse licensing is available to educational institutions, consortia, and other organizations through their local public television stations. The license enables institutions to: offer the series as a telecourse; acquire and use an accompanying manual; and tape the programs off the air for use with enrolled telecourse students—only for the term of the license. For further information, contact Films Incorporated, 1213 Wilmette Avenue, Wilmette, IL 60091; (312) 256-4730.

Telecourse licensing is not necessary to obtain the following materials:

VIETNAM: Anthology and Guide to a Television History. Cohen, Steven. New York: Alfred A. Knopf, 1983, 512 pp., paper, $12.95. For an examination copy, contact: Nina Kingsdale, Alfred A. Knopf, Inc., 201 East 50th Street, New York, NY 10022.

Instructor's Guide to VIETNAM. Graebner, William. New York: Alfred A. Knopf, 1983, 48 pp. For use on the college level. Available free upon written request. Contact Nina Kingsdale at the above address.

Vietnam. Karnow, Stanley. New York: Viking Press, 1983, 720 pp., $20.00.

Voices From VIETNAM. New York: Alfred A. Knopf, 1983. A 75-minute audiocassette, available free with adoption of the Anthology and Guide; or can be purchased separately for $10.00. Address requests to Nina Kingsdale at the above address.

RECORDS

The expression of political views through song has a long tradition in the United States. It was particularly evident during the 1960s, when several social movements (each giving birth to its own cultural expressions) occurred simultaneously. Often popular songs reflected these multiple concerns with lyrics that addressed war, drugs, civil rights, and revolution all at once. Our list is limited to songs that are explicitly about Vietnam and will lend themselves to provocative classroom discussion.

For the words and music of hundreds of anti-war songs, there are two valuable sources. Barbara Dane and Irwin Silber's The Vietnam Songbook (New York: Monthly Review Press, 1969) contains over 100 songs from a dozen countries. Over the past 30 years, Sing Out! magazine has been the major outlet for the publication of topical and traditional folk songs; an index is available for the years 1952-1979. (Write to: Box 1071, Easton PA 18042.)

The two most prolific anti-war songwriters were Phil Ochs and Tom Paxton; each of their albums of the period contains several anti-war songs:

- All the News That's Fit to Sing. Ochs, Phil. Elektra EKS-7269 (1964).
- I Ain't Marching Anymore. Ochs, Phil. Elektra EKS-7287 (1965).
- Phil Ochs: Chords of Fame. Ochs, Phil. A & M SP-4599 (1976).
- The Morning Again. Paxton, Tom. Elektra EKS-74019 (1969).
- New Songs for Old Friends. Paxton, Tom. Reprise MS-2144 (1973).
- New Songs for the Brier Patch. Paxton, Tom. Vanguard VSD-79395 (1977).

Of particular note is the epic ballad of draft evasion and anti-war sentiment:

- Alice's Restaurant. Guthrie, Arlo. Reprise RS-6267 (1967).

Some other representative anti-war songs are:

- "Vietnam Love Song." Collins, Judy. Judy Collins—Living, Elektra EKS-75014 (1971).
- "It Isn't Nice." Collins, Judy. Judy Collins Fifth Album, Elektra EKS-7300 (1964).
- "Handsome Johnny." Havens, Richie. Mixed Bag, Verve/Forecast, FT-3006 (1966).
- "Tall and Proud." Seeger, Peggy and Ewan MacColl. At the Present Moment, Rounder Records 4003 (1973).

Music was less a force in the pro-war cause; but one song, "The Ballad of the Green Beret" (RCA Gold Standard Series 447-787), composed and sung by Sgt. Barry Sadler, was a hit record in 1966.
