This looks like a publication of the presentation at the Dioxin meeting. am very bothered by the string of authors on these papers that are not associated with the Air Force in any way (e.g. Schecter) and the long of of references to his earlier work, much of which has little relevance to Hand. The database is being increasingly analyzed by people who have no understanding of the study population and of how they were identified and selected. As you mentioned, the levels of chemicals in lactating Vietnam women has no relevance to our study population.

 Paul: What a terrible shame that the AFHS is still being "milked" by Michalek et al using small numbers and comparing with the SEER. Greatest is that Arnold Schecter is a co-author. Schecter got his two bits in the 1 paragraph before Materials and Methods (references 6,7,8,17, 23). I'm s mother's milk and food from Bien Hoa City were high on your diet. In the Conclusion section, to CYA, they dutifully noted: "Interpretation of these results should be cautious". Right, the media will turn first to page 341 so as find those words of caution!
