Dear Mike,

Here are the files with the graphics. I printed out one high resolution black and white copy of each patch as a backup. Several of the patches are done with some halftone shading. I thought this was necessary to render the patch as faithfully as possible. The second floppy contains the scanned images of the H-21 and the Boeing Evolution. My old 486/33 could not handle these very well as I imported them in to Corel Draw. The H-21 finally appeared on the screen and it took forever to rotate it 90 degrees and reduce in size. I gave up waiting on the evolution page. I've been sitting at my PC all weekend and I'm ready for a break.

I think the patches enclosed came out fairly well. Some took quite a bit of time. You absolutely have to use the Blue Ghost graphic after the expense and hoops I had guys jump through to get it here. I enclosed the rendering of the 57th Trans Co. patch that I found. The design seems to be contemporary with the other H-21 unit patches. Please let me know as soon as the calendars are ready. I want to order several.

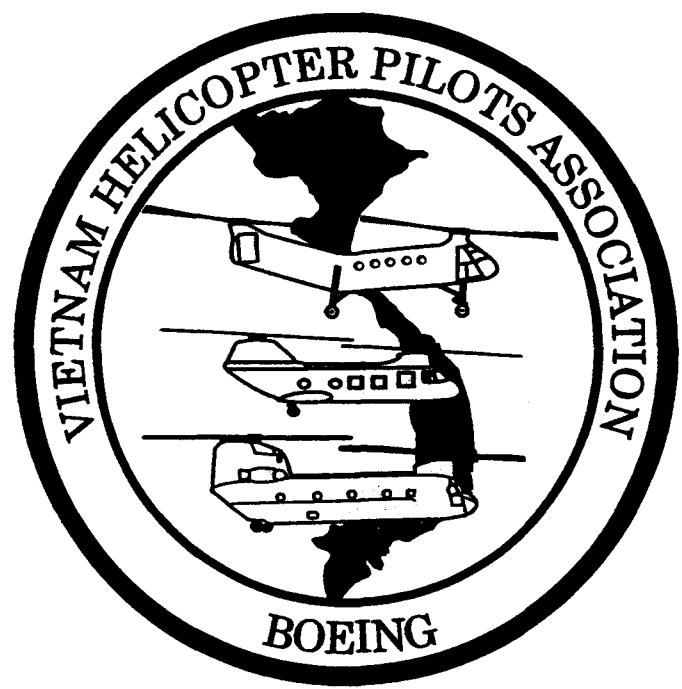

Is there any way I can view the graphic/photo combo before they got to print? I would hate to see some of the layering problems I saw before. That is why I enclosed some photo ready copies. Some of these graphics have 3 or 4 layers and if they ungroup them the order of layering may get messed up. Talk to you later.

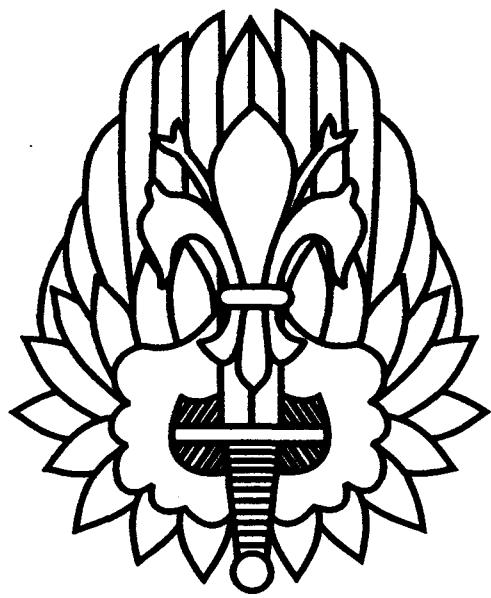

Regards,

Jay

I was still adjusting colour with the printout.
