DISTINCTIVE INSIGNIA

Compiled By

Insignia Collectors*

MARCH 1973

This catalog of distinctive insignia has been compiled for the use of the average collector, therefore only those pieces which can be described as major variations are listed. Major variations are those pieces which differ from the original in that:

1. They vary in overall height and/or width by at least 2mm;
2. They exist in both transparent and opaque enamels;
3. The field and/or charges may be in metal instead of enamel, or vice versa;
4. They exist both enamelled and painted;
5. There is a decided difference in color from the original;
6. They exist in both unpierced and pierced versions; and
7. They exist with both enamelled and metal motto scrolls.

Minor variations have not been listed because they are of interest generally only to the specialized collector. Minor variations can be considered as those pieces which vary by less than 2mm in either height or width; minute changes in the color or size of the charges; gold plated when they should be silver plated and vice versa, and, changes in color of enamelled mottoes on metal ribbon scrolls.

Each insignia has been assigned a classification as to origin. While all categories of insignia are described and illustrated THE AMERICAN SOCIETY OF MILITARY INSIGNIA COLLECTORS recognizes categories "A", "B", "C" and "D" only.

A definition of each classification is as follows:

- (A) Insignia worn by a unit, samples of which have been approved by The Adjutant General, The Office of the Quartermaster General and/or The Institute of Heraldry, US Army.
- (B) Insignia made from an authentic drawing or blazon at the request of the organization or The Institute of Heraldry; samples prepared and approved within the Department of the Army but not as yet worn by the organization.
- (C) Insignia worn by an organization, samples of which have never been approved by The Institute of Heraldry.
- (D) Differs from (B) above in that the organization is no longer active.
- (E) Insignia made from an authentic drawing, official blazon and/or existing die by a private individual but never worn.
- (F) Insignia made from a previously publicized drawing or an existing insignia by a private individual but never worn. These are usually poor reproductions of "A", "B", "C" or "D" insignia.

Should you have any distinctive insignia applicable to this catalog but not listed herein or any major variation which can be easily described to distinguish it from others of the same kind, or if you are aware of errors or changes in the designation of any insignia, it would be appreciated if you would send the data to Mr. William E. Goodman Jr, 116 S. 28th St., Penbrook, Harrisburg, Penna 17103.
