

The United States of America

Central Intelligence Agency

Citation for Hugh L. Grundy

From 1955 to 1975, Hugh L. Grundy served the United States of America and the Central Intelligence Agency with distinction as the president of Civil Air Transport/Air America. For two decades, Hugh Grundy's innovative leadership enabled CAT/AAM to effectively prosecute the most complex and demanding air missions of the Cold War while preserving operational cover and protecting his people and the United States from harm. His magnificent performance reflects great credit upon himself, the Central Intelligence Agency, and the United States of America.

George J. Tenet
Director of Central Intelligence
(Acting)
2 June 2001