Dear Harold:

This is formally to thank you for the opportunity to be brought up to date on the exciting current and future programs under your purview.

I believe that you are clearly on the right track with regard to operational readiness and with regard to planning for operations for the future.

In searching for any useful additional comments, I would only add the following comment which I make every time I talk to anyone in authority in the U.S. Navy. We must be sure we don't forget to pay adequate attention to research and development while concentrating on efficiencies of current and future operations.

Many thanks for giving me the opportunity to learn and kibitz and congratulations to a superb team.

Sincerely,

E. R. Zumwalt, Jr.
