Admiral E.R. Zumwalt

Dear Admiral Zumwalt,

I would like to express my sincere sympathy to you and your family for the tragedy that cancer has brought to your door. As a physician who spent his boyhood in Norfolk, Virginia where my father is also a physician I have often felt that the monies our country has spent on new weaponry could introduce catastrophic variables to warfare with entirely unintended results. The nightmare of the current epidemic of cancer and AIDS, and the alarming rise of the cancer death rate in the United States from one in five in 1982 to one in three today, along with the appearance of "new" diseases of all kinds, ^{however,} may well have its origin in places other than chemical or radioactive contamination.

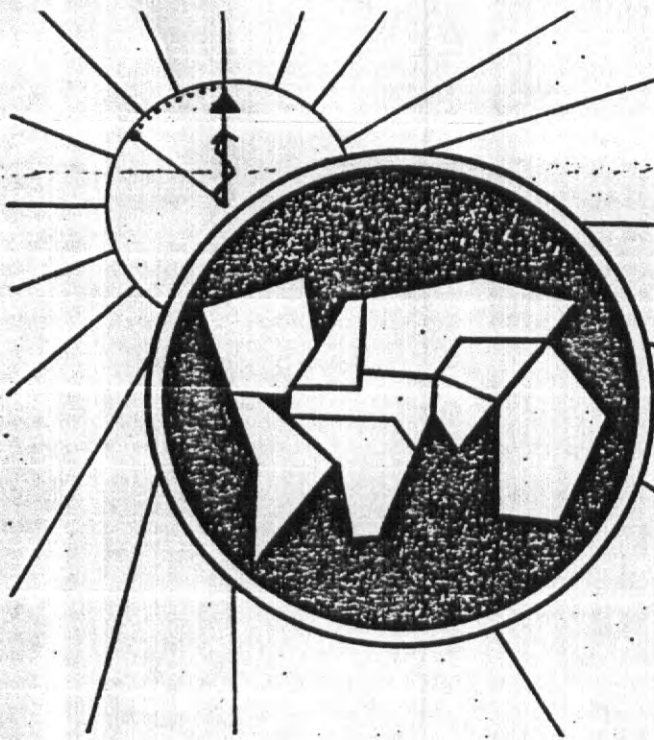

I have followed the research of Dr. Eva Paneth Snead for the past year with great interest and I am convinced that the conclusions she has drawn regarding the connection between contaminated vaccines and AIDS as well as Cancer and other illnesses are firmly grounded in scientific fact and supported by substantial scientific evidence. I first became interested in the possibility of viral causes for Cancer when my girlfriend at Harvard College began doing research into oncogenic (Cancer-causing) viruses. It is entirely possible that such viruses have been introduced into the world population by vaccination with contaminated vaccines and by viral contamination of food and water. Once introduced they may ~~begin~~ begin transforming cells into cancer cells immediately, or they may attack the immune system, or the virus may insert itself into the host's DNA and remain inactive or occult for years until some chemical or environmental trigger activates the virus to transform the cell. I concur with Dr. Paneth's conclusion that Agent Orange may merely act as an activator of viruses which are the true causes of malignant transformation.

SOCIETY for the PREVENTION of IRREVERSIBLE CATASTROPHE on EARTH

*We hold these truths to be self

that all ^{humans} ~~men~~ are created equal, that they are endowed by their creator with certain inalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. These eternal words apply to everyone on this planet. Unfortunately they have far too often not been observed even in this country. The right of every human being in our global village to equal and excellent medical care is tragically a basic and inalienable human right that has not been afforded to many in need, and is unlikely to be apportioned fairly in the near future given current economic trends. A fundamental change in global priorities will be necessary before there is any hope that the individual will be protected from the dangers that his bad fortunes of birth into the "wrong" family or race or country pose to his longevity and survival.

The death of any developed human being, irrespective of sex, race, religion, nationality, sect, tribe, or creed is an IRREVERSIBLE CATASTROPHE. Who knows how many Einsteins or Mozarts we may have lost by not protecting everyone's health? I dream of a day when the individual will finally become recognized as the fundamental unit of society, with his rights to life and liberty and decent health care protected by ~~statute~~, a ^{law} ~~statute~~ which will hopefully transcend all national boundaries. ^{law} ^{law} It is the intention of this organization to redefine our global society in terms of each human being ~~having exactly~~ equal access to all lifesaving technologies, and to bring about those societal changes necessary to effect the establishment of equal care to all in this country and elsewhere. It is also the express intent of S.P.I.C.E. international to serve as a clearing ground to exchange communications between all peoples to prevent misunderstandings which may lead to senseless bloodshed. It is also the specific goal of this organization to facilitate the dissemination of technologies which preserve the resources of the planet and protect all of the inhabitants from the dangers of the extremely hazardous wastes of the non-solar and non-renewable technologies of our present era.
