Admiral,

Listening to you on NPR this morning from Ho Chi Minh City caused me to pause and reconsider, once again, the full measure of responsibility. Your actions in dealing w/ the after effects of your military decision shows a courage and integrity rare in today's complex and troubled times.

I appreciate what you are doing for Viet Nam, for Agent Orange survivors and, moreover as an example of leadership in the face of uncertainty. I'm proud to know you.

Best personal regards
Larry Turner
