Hugh W. Burgess (l), World War I hero, who received France's highest honor, the Croix de Guerre, has finally collected some long overdue recognition in his own country. Proud townspeople of Perry gathered to cheer as Brig. Gen. Weldon Honeycutt (r) pinned the Army's Silver Star, the nation's third-highest award for valor, on Burgess' blue jacket Friday. Burgess also was awarded the Victory Medal, the Service Award and a marksmanship pin as Archie Herring watched. Page 1B.

loyalists of the deposed Shah.

"I guess Andrew hasn't been in any Moslem courts lately," one congressional aide said. "I guarantee you one thing, there will be people having something to say on the Senate floor when they come back."

"I believe the President's friends are his worst enemies," said another congressional aide.

Presidential spokesman Jody Powell said there would be no comment from the White House. State Department officials also declined official comment.

"This thing has been heard four times in the Florida Supreme Court, three times in the Court of Appeals and five times by the U.S. Supreme Court," Marky said. He said that everyone was "free to
